Belgium's Move For Neutrality Stirs All Europe

As Army Forces Are Redistributed and Regiments Are Placed Even Along French Border, British and French Officials Confer on Changed Position; Paris Profoundly Surprised

Plan Would End Security Pacts

Canadian Press from Havas
Brussels, Oct. 15.—Belgium today ordered redistribution of its army to strengthen defences on all frontiers, following a declaration by King Leopold to the effect Belgium would return to her pre-war neutrality position.

The Dutch, German and French frontiers have been affected by the army move, which included a sweeping reorganization.

Army orders moved two regiments to the neighborhood of Turnhout and Tongres on the northern border, nine to Liege, centre of defence on the northeastern frontier, a corps of Adrenaline chassiers to the eastern border, and three regiments to Flanders, adjoining France.

Three motorized cavalry regiments will remain at Brussels, ready to reinforce any point threatened.

OPINION IN LONDON
London, Oct. 15 (Canadian Press).—Informed quarters in London today advanced two reasons for Belgium's desire to return to her pre-war position of neutrality in Europe, as expressed before the Belgian cabinet by King Leopold.

One reason was said to be that Belgium wished to make her position clear, following a note delivered by Great Britain on September 18 to the other Locarno signatories embodying preparatory suggestions for a proposed Locarno conference. The other was said to be dislike of the Blum government of France, of the Franco-Soviet pact and fear of a further swing to the left in France.

From the viewpoint of both British and French security, informed quarters said, any return by Belgium to a neutrality status would be a severe blow. If Belgium was strictly neutral, staff talks amongst Britain, France and Belgium would be impossible. Furthermore British or French planes flying over Belgian territory, around a European conflict break out, would obviously be violating Belgian neutrality. Britain and France both would be deprived of the advantage of using sound detectors and air bases in Belgium in case of emergency.

Associated Press
Paris, Oct. 15.—A four-point French note, informed sources said tonight, will be sent to Belgium seeking clarification of King Leopold's stunning announcement of complete neutrality.

The note was said to have been drafted after Premier Blum had conferred with Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos and Minister of State Camille Chautemps.

END OF AGREEMENTS
Brussels, Oct. 15.—Belgium's return to a policy of complete neutrality in Europe, urged on the cabinet by King Leopold yesterday, would involve the

The move was launched by trustee Mrs. N. E. McLaurin, who said she had made preliminary inquiries and found the systems in city schools in need of improvement.

New Structure Over Fraser River to Be Called "Pattullo Bridge"; Tribute Paid His Leadership in Project By New Westminster Council

"Pattullo Bridge" will be the name of the new $4,000,000 highway structure now being erected across the Fraser River at New Westminster.

The provincial cabinet today was unanimous in asking the Premier to accept this honor as proposed by the New Westminster City Council.

The bridge, it is expected, will be completed by next fall, and will be christened at appropriate opening ceremony.

An expression of sincere tribute to the Premier was contained in a letter from the New Westminster Council urging that the bridge be named after the Premier.

Members of the council were fully cognizant, it stated, of the strong opposition the government was faced with and of the difficulties overcome in keeping the project under way.

"We feel that without the consistent support of both yourself and your government the project would never have been carried through to a successful conclusion," it added.

Returns With Bunkers Afire

Greek Freighter Nereus Comes Here With 600 Tons of Smouldering Coal

With coal-smoke belching from her ventilators, the Greek freighter Nereus reached safety at Ogden Point at daylight this morning, having been forced by fire in her coal bunkers to put about when off the Queen Charlotte Islands on Tuesday and head back to port.

The Nereus sailed from Comox last Saturday evening with a cargo of lumber and logs for Japan. She was heading to sea from the Queen Charlotte Islands when the fire first was discovered.

Members of the crew endeavored to extinguish the smouldering blaze with pumps and other equipment, but were unsuccessful.

In the bunkers are nearly 1,000 tons of coal and it was estimated this morning between 600 and 700 tons are ablaze.

The swarthy Greek members of the crew were pretty tired and dirty when the ship arrived and were looking forward to a rest, baths and some clean clothes.

One woman, the wife of the chief engineer, was aboard the ship and this morning made arrangements to go to a hotel while the ship was in port. She is unable to speak English.

W. G. Jordan, with a crew of men from the Pacific Salvage Company, met the Nereus and made plans to put out the fire. The job will take some days, it is expected and it will be nearly a week before the ship is ready for sea again. The coal will be removed from the bunkers to scows alongside the ship and hoses turned on the blazing pieces. It may be necessary to stow more bunkers.

Fortunately Pacific weather was favorable and the ship made port without any trouble. She is alongside the elevator dock.

H. A. Barnett of the British Corporation, T. J. Warkman of the London Salvage and Ted King of Lloyd's met the ship.

Russia Repeats Portugal Coast Blockade Demand

Soviet Envoys Again Call on Chairman to Convoke Non-intervention Committee in London For Action Against Shipment of Arms to Spanish Insurgents

Associated Press
Moscow, Oct. 15.—Soviet Russia renewed its pressure to force the Spanish military aid issue today.

Ambassador Ivan M. Maisky of the Soviet Union and M. Kagan, Russian member of the "Hands-off-Spain" committee, again called on the Earl of Plymouth, chairman of the Non-Intervention Committee.

They pressed Lord Plymouth a second time to convoke the committee immediately to act on their demand for a virtual blockade of Portuguese ports to stop Fascist air shipment to Spain.

Maisky and Kagan remained only a short time at the Foreign Office today. Lord Plymouth yesterday evening had refused a previous demand for an immediate session of the committee.

NO CHANGE IN ATTITUDE
It was understood Lord Plymouth was unrelenting in his stand on the Soviet proposal that British and French warships patrol the Portuguese coast to insure against arms trafficking to Spain.

It was reported he had told Maisky and Kagan that the proposal was outside the competence of the Non-Intervention Committee, and that it would have to be offered through ordinary diplomatic channels.

Company officials reported today. Mrs. Rogers was traveling with her mother, Mrs. Helen Windross, who notified ship's officers when she discovered her daughter missing. A thorough search of the ship failed to locate her, officials said.

Grief-stricken and near collapse, Mrs. Windross was taken to the home of another daughter, Mrs. Sherman Ebbingshouse, wife of a Seattle attorney, in the ship's arrival. She remained there today. Frank Rogers, husband of the missing woman, was on his way here.

Mrs. Rogers had not been ill and seemed in good spirits, company officials were informed.

Toronto Globe Now Under New Control

Ownership of Ninety-two-year-old Paper Passes to C. G. McCullagh and W. H. Wright; New Publisher Once Sold Papers on Streets

Canadian Press
Toronto, Oct. 15.—Ownership control of The Toronto Globe, daily, founded in the pre-confederation days of Canada's history, passed today into the hands of C. G. McCullagh and William Henry Wright.

William Gladstone Jaffray, president and publisher of the ninety-two-year-old newspaper since 1914, announced yesterday evening he had relinquished his interest and connection with the morning paper and that 60 per cent of the shares of the company had been purchased by the new owners. The amount involved was not disclosed.

This morning's edition of The Globe carried in its masthead the name of Mr. McCullagh, who, at the age of thirty-one, becomes the fifth president and publisher of the paper. He thus becomes head of the newspaper which twenty years ago he hawked on London streets.

Mr. Wright, who is vice-president of Lake Shore and Wright-Hargreaves

Mines, announced he is solely supporting the enterprise financially and will take no active part in operation of the paper.

Physical transfer of shares of The Globe Printing Company was made yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the board of directors.

Since it was founded in 1844 by George Brown, one of the Fathers of Confederation, The Globe has been generally accepted politically as a Liberal paper.

The new president, in assuming control, announced the historic traditions of the paper would be continued; that politically it would be independent Liberal, and that in "reserving the right to comment and criticize, from the standpoint of the Toward evening, however, the rain or ashes subsided, leaving Asama's crater enveloped in thick smoke. No casualties were reported.

Mrs. E. Simpson Is Asking Divorce

London, Oct. 15.—Mrs. Ernest Simpson, a United States woman well known in London society, has filed divorce proceedings against her husband.

The suit, it was announced by Simpson herself, has been set for hearing before Mr. Justice Hawke at the Ipswich assizes, opening October 27.

"The case will not be defended," Simpson, a shipping broker, said. "Beyond that I have no statement to make."

Mrs. Simpson made her debut in Baltimore in the early years of the Great War. In 1927 she was divorced from Lieut. Earl Spencer after eleven years of married life and subsequently was married to Simpson.

She and Simpson, who joined the Coldstream Guards, after leaving Harvard, have been friends of King Edward for several years, and often entertained him when he was Prince of Wales. Along with Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, they were the King's guests at dinner at St. James's Palace shortly after the accession.

Mrs. Simpson was one of the King's party on His Majesty's recent Mediterranean cruise aboard the yacht Nesher, and only recently was a guest at Balmoral Castle, when her name appeared in the court circular.

Mrs. Simpson moved yesterday to a house she has leased in Cumberland Terrace, facing Regent's Park.

These sources held the policy advocated in the Belgian monarch's speech yesterday—his first full cabinet speech—meant four things:

1. Repudiation of the Franco-Belgian military pact of 1920 which has been regarded as one of the keystones of French defence policy.

2. Belgium's withdrawal from the Locarno Treaty for collective European security.

3. Repudiation of Belgium's duties under the League of Nations covenant.

4. A serious blow to the entire system of collective European security present and future.

Dispatches told how British and French officials had begun immediate conferences over policy. King Leopold's declaration was viewed as having withdrawn Belgium from the Locarno pact.

HAVER NEWS AGENCY.
Brussels, Oct. 15.—Hopes for the long-delayed "new Locarno," expected to be built on the ruins of the pact violated by Germany's Rhineland coup, were dimmed today following Belgium's severance of all post-war alliances in favor of the strict neutrality it maintained prior to 1914.

Appearing for the first time before his ministerial council yesterday, King Leopold said Chancellor Hitler's reoccupation of the Rhineland had returned Belgium to "the international position we held before the war."

Warning that "our geographic situation condemns us to maintain a military machine to dissuade any neighbor whatsoever from using our territory to attack another state," the King authorized his cabinet to recommend legislation reinforcing the country's defence programme.

QUICKLY MADE PUBLIC
The unusual significance attached to King Leopold's speech was demonstrated in the fact that his declarations, usually considered confidential were made public in accordance with permission expressly given to Premier Paul Van Zeeland.

"Alliances, even defensive ones, would not serve us," King Leopold said, because, prompt as it might be, aid could not reach us before the first shock of the invader, which might be overpowering, and against which we must prepare to fight alone."

He referred to the recent statement of former Foreign Minister Paul Hainaut, who said Belgium desired "only one thing, a policy exclusively and integrally Belgian, especially by those who regard Germany's increasing military strength as a source of war." This policy should be directed "resolutely toward withdrawing our nation from the quarrels of other nations."

"Our foreign policy must not propose to prepare for a more or less victorious war following a coalition, but to avert war from our territory," King Leopold warned.

As foremost reason for Belgium's rearmament, the King cited "Germany's lightning reoccupation of the Rhineland, accentuating the nervousness along our frontiers."

GREAT SURPRISE IN FRANCE
Associated Press.
Paris, Oct. 15.—Belgian neutrality statements, interpreted as forecasting possible cancellation of the military aid pact between France and Belgium, produced surprise and "profound stupor" among officials today.

The Brussels declaration was regarded widely as a virtual death thrust at the European system of collective security, according to the Associated Press.

Foreign Minister Yvon Delbois instructed the French ambassador at Brussels to seek a clarification of yesterday's speech of King Leopold to his cabinet, which was widely interpreted as a definite return to Belgian neutrality and a repudiation of existing security agreements with other powers.

INSIST PACTS IN FORCE
The Foreign Office insisted that in so far as France was concerned, all Franco-Belgian accords remained effective.

Officials recognized the King's speech as a new directive of Belgian policy, but they expected that all accords would be re-examined before the Belgian parliament took formal action.

The Belgian parliament was summoned for an extraordinary session October 27.

PROTEST EXPECTED
King Leopold's move caused such surprise to French officials they declined to comment before studying the declaration. Some quarters declared a vigorous protest was certain to be lodged. Some officials at first refused to believe the statement.

A Belgian decision to place part of its army along the French frontier also disquieted the Paris government, which heretofore has expressed hope of being able to rush troops through Belgium in the event of war with Germany.

OUTSTANDING EVENT
Genevieve Tabouis, commentator for the newspaper L'Ouvre, characterized King Leopold's statement as "the most important since the signing of the (Versailles) peace treaty."

FRENCH-RUSSIAN PACT
French rightists declared the military assistance pact between France and Russia and the domestic situation were largely responsible for Belgium's decision.

They pointed out that if Germany were to attack Russia, France would be compelled to go to Russia's assistance. They said Belgians expected, in such an instance, their country would become the chief battlefield, especially since strong French border forces would hinder a German westward attack through Alsace-Lorraine.

BELGIUM AND LEAGUE
"Will Belgium also quit the League, after having denounced the military accords with France and renounced the Locarno Pact of 1925?" asked the Socialist paper, Le Populaire.

The Kremlin was portrayed as feeling that each member of the Non-Intervention Committee has the right to ask the body to be summoned and that the chairman has no power to turn down a request.

PORTUGUESE REPLY
Lisbon, Oct. 15 (Associated Press).—Russian "bluffs and threatenings" should be "despised by the Portuguese," Capt. Botelho Moniz, nationalist leader, declared in an address today.

The Lisbon government declined comment, officials saying they had just received copies of the Soviet note to Lord Plymouth. Non-Intervention Committee chairman.

Associated Press.
San Martin de Valdeiglesias, Spain, Oct. 15.—Insurgent armies in a new offensive smashed their way to a point twenty-five miles west of Madrid today. Three columns under Gen. Jose Varela took part in the drive.

Now the red and yellow flag of the insurgents waves above the Albuera River, near the village of Aldeanueva, only nine miles from the strategic centre of Navalcarnero.

Two Madrid planes were shot down during the advance. One plunged in flames on the side of a hill 100 yards from where Gen. Varela stood talking to an Associated Press correspondent.

The push began at 5 a.m. yesterday. Two hours later, two insurgent airplanes engaged three government fighters directly above the command post.

TWO SHOTS HEARD
Suddenly, out of the white blanket of clouds shot a human form. A pilot-less plane spun to earth straight for the command post, crashed on the side of the hill. Wreckage was tossed for yards around.

Then came the parachute. Pulling desperately on the ropes, the hapless pilot sought to avoid landing on the fascist command post. But as he reached the 600-foot level two re-

Jellicoe Advocated Canada Have Navy

Late British Admiral's Efforts Soon After Great War Are Recounted in Book By Admiral Bacon Published Today

By THOMAS T. CHAMPTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, Oct. 15.—Efforts made by Admiral Jellicoe to induce Canada to bear a part of the burden of naval defence of the British empire are outlined in a life of Jellicoe by Admiral Sir R. H. Bacon, published today.

Admiral Jellicoe, who died last year, made a tour of Canada after the Great War with this object in view.

While he was at Ottawa, the book relates, Jellicoe wired the Admiralty that the Canadian cabinet was discussing naval estimates for the next few years and asked for information as to the probable size of Britain's naval estimates for the next two or three years. The author says nobody at that time could supply this information as a new British naval policy was being evolved.

Mr. Jaffray, who became president after the death of his father, Senator Robert Jaffray, paid glowing tribute to the qualifications of Mr. McCullagh.

"To relinquish the associations long maintained, and even the responsibilities, which in recent years have been heavy, is not easy," said Mr. Jaffray. "Conviction that The Globe had a mission for service in behalf of the well-being of the people has compensated for the demands made on time and strength."

He said, "I prefer to feel my way and as matters come under my consideration decisions will be made. I want to be clear

The Globe would continue to be an exponent and champion of British principles, loyalties and traditions. The Globe has changed ownership three times, and has been under the direction of only eight editors.

The proprietors have been: Hon. George Brown, one of the Fathers of Confederation; the Jaffray family headed by Senator Robert Jaffray and his son, William, and the present owners.

The editors were: Mr. Brown, 1844-1880; J. Gordon Brown, 1880-82; John Cameron, 1882-90; J. E. (later Sir John) Willison, 1890-1902; Dr. J. A. Macdonald, 1902-15; T. Stewart Lyon, 1915-25; Harry W. Anderson, 1925-36; and A. A. McIntosh, the present incumbent.

ABLE EXECUTIVES
Mr. McCullagh, who, after selling the Globe "on the back concessions" as a boy, later served in various capacities on the staff of the paper, said his policy would be to surround himself with able executives, broaden out the news services and make the paper a constructive force in the affairs of Canada.

"In politics," he said, "I prefer to feel my way and as matters come under my consideration decisions will be made. I want to be clear volter shots cracked out and the man slumped in his straps.

The parachute drifted to earth in a wooded, rocky spot and the insurgents started a search. All they found was a blood-stained parachute. Apparently, they said, the aviator had saved his life by simulating suicide in the air.

Associated Press.
Madrid, Oct. 15.—Government machine guns stuck to their posts in the Pelayos gorge of the Alberche River today, striving to check a large force of Fascist insurgents only a little more than thirty-five miles due west of the capital.

Southwest of Madrid the fascists were even closer to their goal in the nearly three-month-old civil war. Government soldiers, the war ministry said, held off a surprise attack at Aldea del Fresno, near Navalcarnero, which is only about twenty miles from Madrid.

Close to the city, huge machines dug trenches in preparation for a possible last-ditch fight if the insurgents close in.

Reports that Russia was contemplating withdrawing from the international "hands-off-Spain" pact and actively aiding the Socialists created some cheer among government supporters.

Burgos, Spain, Oct. 15 (Canadian Press from Havas).—Detailed plans of the present Madrid fortifications were reported today to have fallen into Fascist hands as insurgent dispatches announced a "destructive" bombardment of Madrid.

The plans were discovered by insurgent officers in the village of Cebrosos at the foot of the Guadarrama Mountains, about forty miles west of the capital, after their troops had ousted government defenders, insurgent wireless reports said.

Fascist airplanes again bombed the capital yesterday, destroying barracks and public edifices, it was asserted.

Reich Is Ready For Pact Talks

But Hitler Insists Russia Be Omitted From European Anti-war Conversations

Associated Press.
London, Oct. 15.—Germany's long delayed reply to a British questionnaire asking detailed suggestions for future European security, today reached the Foreign Office.

The German answer was delivered by Prince Otto von Bismarck, councillor of the German embassy in London.

Informed sources declared the reply left the way open for future discussions of European security problems, but repeated Germany's declaration she must have national equality among other European powers.

NOT TALKING WITH RUSSIA
The communication also was understood to have declared willingness to co-operate in formulation of a new western European peace accord. Germany, however, was represented as standing firm in her objection to any attempt to draw Russia into such negotiations.

Berlin, Oct. 15 (Associated Press).—Chancellor Hitler, answering Great Britain's "reel" on a proposed new Locarno pact, today was understood to have expressed willingness to join an anti-war agreement with Britain, France, Belgium and Italy.

However, his agreement to join a pact in which other countries would restrict their intention never to fight among themselves for any reason was reported to have left out eastern and southeastern European states.

League Society In New Drive

James A. Gibson of Victoria Named Secretary

Canadian Press.
Montreal, Oct. 15.—James A. Gibson, formerly of Ottawa and Victoria, has been named Montreal secretary of a League of Nations Society in Canada, office, opened here today to carry out the society's new national peace action programme.

Robert Inch, national secretary of the society, who announced the appointment, said the Montreal Peace Action Council and Peace Action Centre, including an international affairs literature service in the branch office, would be established.

Mr. Gibson, a native of Ottawa, graduated from the University of British Columbia and attended Oxford University as a Rhodes scholar. He has travelled extensively in Europe in the interests of international student organizations and recently completed a lecture tour for the society across western Canada.

Former Nuncio's House Searched

Munich, Germany, Oct. 15.—Nazi secret police today searched the house of Alberto Vassalla-Torregrossa, titular Archbishop of Messina and former Papal Nuncio to Bavaria, confiscating a number of letters.

Di Torregrossa, prior to abolition of the independent provincial government, held a recognized diplomatic post and extraterritoriality.

The search, which was the second this month, resulted in the arrest of one employee.

Gestapo officials maintained secrecy in connection with the incident, but it was understood the raid was in connection with alleged reorganization of the prohibited Catholic Youth movement.

Police Action Declared Abrupt

Stuart Henderson Argues George Brothers' Appeal at Ottawa

Canadian Press.
Ottawa, Oct. 15.—Even a white man could be expected to resist if accosted in the way Dominion Constable F. H. Gishbourne accosted Ennea George, Stuart Henderson of Victoria, counsel for Ennea, Richardson and Alex George, three Indian brothers, told the Supreme Court of Canada today.

The three are under sentence of death for the murder of Gishbourne who, along with Constable Carr of the British Columbia Provincial Police, was killed in a fight which arose out of an attempt to arrest Ennea on a charge of stabbing.

INSTRUCTIONS TO JURY
In appealing for a reversal of the findings of the British Columbia court, Mr. Henderson contended the judge at the trial did not properly instruct the jury. He claimed the violent and abrupt manner in which the constables came on the Indians at midnight might have been due to some ill-will or feud and not to a desire to effect an arrest in an orderly manner and said this aspect should have been placed clearly before the jury.

"Surely with three weeks of evidence and several days of argument it cannot be suggested the jury were not aware of the facts," said Mr. Justice Davis.

Mr. Henderson said the length of the trial and the volume of evidence might have had the effect of confusing the jury.

"I am just wondering whether I am not becoming confused myself," said Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff.

After Mr. Henderson completes his argument, Hon. Gordon Sloan, Attorney-General of British Columbia, will reply for the crown.

U.S. Republican Presidential Candidate Speaks in Michigan

Associated Press.
Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 15.—Contending the New Deal has confused change with progress, Governor Alf. M. Landon called yesterday evening for a "forward-looking liberal government" based on principles tested by time and experience.

"We know from history and from the hard school of experience that we desert the old truths only at our peril," the Republican presidential nominee said.

Mr. Landon spoke from a hotel balcony after a campaign through Michigan's industrial centres.

French Anarchist Dies in Action

Barcelona, Oct. 15.—The labor press yesterday announced the death of the Aragon front of Emilio Cottin, French anarchist who attempted to assassinate the then premier of France, Georges Clemenceau, in 1919. # New Army Lines In Manchukuo

By JAMES A. MILLS

Tokio, Oct. 15.—Japan has drafted a second five-year railroad extension program to push an additional 2,500 miles of track right to Russia's "back door" on the Soviet-Manchukuo border.

The new lines, projected through black and bandit-infested areas of Mongolia, would enable the Japanese military command to send troops to almost any point on the frontier within two or three days.

The network of railways was planned directly by the Japanese army general staff of Tokyo. Since 1931, Japan has constructed 2,000 miles of new railroads in Manchuria, bringing the state's total trackage up to 6,000 miles. There are now twenty-one separate railroad lines in Manchukuo, latching an area of about 600,000 square miles.

The South Manchurian Railway directors, who will supervise construction, have estimated the total cost at 400,000,000 yen ($144,000,000). Tokyo is experiencing considerable difficulty in raising this amount of money. The bankers have declared they could not finance extensively and profitably what they termed "military railroads."

Many of the lines already built run right to the Russian border. Others connect with Chinese railroads, while some are thrust toward the Inner Mongolian border. Most of these lines are intercommunicating, touching every main position through which the new empire of Manchukuo might be attacked. They link Manchukuo, Korea, Jehol province, China and Japan proper. They give access to tide water in five different ports in Manchuria.

FIFTH TERM FOR FINLAND

Popular Barrister Again Heads Esquimaux District Conservatives

Re-elected at the annual meeting in Colwood Community Hall last night, E. V. Finland is president of the Esquimaux District Conservative Association for the fifth consecutive year. He was warmly thanked for his work as presiding officer during the last year.

Three vice-presidents were chosen: William Mudge, Cobble Hill; Mrs. M. D. Bowden, Esquimaux; and P. C. Blake, Colwood.

The secretary-treasurer, David A. Henry, was re-elected. R. H. Pooley, K.C., M.P.P., was the chief speaker of the evening, and expressed himself "favorable to island members in the Provincial Legislature getting together to demand a better deal for Vancouver Island. In the past, he said, island legislators had allowed party differences to keep them apart."

Mr. Pooley claimed that long-sighted policies of the former Conservative government were now bearing fruit, with the credit going to the present administration. The Conservatives, he said, had met obligations abroad, kept up the credit of the province and cut down general expenditures.

TO DECIDE POSITION
The speaker did not commit himself definitely on whether he would stand again as a candidate in the riding, but said he would advise the association later.

On the issue of Vancouver Island's treatment, Mr. Pooley said that if the government did not give the island a better deal he thought that with its own administration, and assuming its individual obligations, the island would soon outdistance the mainland in growth and prosperity. In reply to questions about the Social Credit party, Mr. Pooley said the next election would be between Liberals and Conservatives only. He mentioned the reported flight of capital from Alberta because of the policies initiated there.

A resolution advanced by Capt. W. J. Cox for immediate action to register party supporters on the provincial voters' list was adopted by the meeting. Mrs. M. D. Bowden, as a vice-president of the B.C. Conservative Association, reported on the June convention, and urged the district to press organization plans.

WEST COAST ROAD URGED

Link With Port Renfrew Would Open New Area For Victoria

A number of suggestions for consideration of the provincial government were advanced by F. W. Davey in an address before Ward Four Liberal Association last night.

He advocated the opening of the West Coast Road from Jordan River to Port Renfrew as a means of developing a practically untouched section of the island which would bring increased trade to Victoria and provide a new holiday centre for tourists.

Provincial action, to curb logging methods by a new system of forestry control was also touched upon by the speaker. On Lower Vancouver Island much of the timber lands had been ravaged by logging and fires, and some logging practices were not in the best interests of the province, he said.

Mr. Davey favored cleaning up the provincial legislative buildings ground by removing the old buildings at the rear of the main structure. The mines building, he thought, should be taken to another spot for preservation as an historical feature. Other structures could be demolished.

The members listened with interest to Mr. Davey's suggestions and agreed to discuss them at a future meeting. It was announced that at the forthcoming general meeting of the Victoria Liberal Association, admission will be by membership cards.

Dual Position Is Abolished

Major A. C. Hinton Relieved of School Grounds Supervisor Duties

Major A. C. Hinton, who for the last eighteen months has held dual positions as supervisor of building and grounds and director of physical education for the City School Board, was relieved of his former duties by the trustees yesterday evening.

The change was made because of recent increased work required from Major Hinton in connection with physical training, brought about by the application of the new Department of Education curriculum. Trustee E. E. George, who moved the resolution, said he felt the time had come when Major Hinton should concentrate more on the physical training work and be relieved of the building and grounds supervision.

He paid tribute to Major Hinton's work during his tenure as supervisor of the school and grounds and did not wish the move to be construed in any way as a reflection on Major Hinton's work. The revised curriculum, he said, attached more importance to physical training instruction.

SUGGESTS NEW LIGHTS SCHEME

Decorative Stringers Across City Streets Proposed For Christmas

Possibility of stringing colored lights across downtown streets this Christmas, as a forerunner of part of Victoria's decorative scheme for its seventy-fifth jubilee next year, was suggested by Alderman T. W. C. Hawkins to members of the city's electric light committee yesterday afternoon.

Alderman Hawkins said he would advise merchants not to use the usual cedar bough decorations along the sidewalk between lamp standards. The standards were not designed to carry that extra weight, and the strings of greenery provided an obstruction to the fire department in case of an emergency call, he said. After discussing the lighting scheme, it was decided to have the committee's secretary request the Junior Chamber of Commerce to approach merchants with a view to paying for the permanent installation of the colored-light strings across the streets.

SAMPLE BLOCK
An effort will be made to have one block on Yates Street furnished with the bulb strings to illustrate the proposal. It was suggested further lighting effects might be carried out by owners of private office buildings, that the Post Office might be redecorated and the Empress Hotel given more external lights.

The committee members also inspected certain parts of the city's residential districts from which have come applications for arc lamps.

Library Grant Is Received

H. Norman Lidster, chairman of the Public Library Commission of British Columbia, announced today he has received word from the Carnegie Corporation of New York, that a further sum of $4,000 has been placed at the disposal of the library commission for library development in the province.

This grant is a result of a personal application made by Mr. Lidster to the Carnegie Corporation last May, when the whole situation in connection with the library development in British Columbia, and particularly relating to the union library districts, was discussed with the corporation.

This is the second supplementary grant which has been made by the corporation since its original grant of $100,000 to the commission in 1929. The immediate and practical results of the grants made by the Carnegie Corporation have been the establishment in the province of three union library districts which the commission believes will afford a practical answer to the problem of providing reading material for the people of British Columbia, Mr. Lidster said.

A meeting of the commission will be called in the near future to discuss methods of putting this latest grant to the best possible use.

CITY TEMPLE HOLDS DINNER

Report on Debt Reduction Features Banquet of Institution

Excellent reports of progress were presented at a banquet held in the Victoria City Temple last night. Over 120 persons sat down to the tables arranged and served by the members of the Women's Auxiliary.

A feature of the evening was the attendance of fifteen clergymen and laymen who at one time and another had been pulpit guests during the present interregnum of pastors. G. A. Hedden, president of the board of management, presided, and in the course of his remarks reported that 42 per cent of the $18,000 that was owing in the early part of 1934 had been paid off. He said that this had been made possible by a complete reorganization of the financial set-up of the organization and by the balancing of budgets. Some assets had been sacrificed to attain this position, but the result was that the church was in a better position financially today than it had ever been before, and the future was certainly brighter. However, with 58 per cent still to pay, there was plenty to do, he said. On behalf of his colleagues he expressed appreciation of the kindly interest and practical assistance given by the clergy of several denominations. The loyalty of the members of the organization was also praised.

PRaises TEMPLE
Dr. W. G. Wilson, speaking in reply for the visiting ministers, expressed pleasure over the progress that had been made, and complimented the City Temple on the courage and effort that had been exerted toward the institution's objective. He said that there were several aspects of the work that were highly commendable. George Holt, immediate past president, was complimented by the chairman on the completion of the building of the ramp which now provides access to the main platform from the floor below, and also on the splendid assistance he had given to the church over many years.

SAYS ETHIOPIA NOT CONQUERED

Associated Press
Providence, R.I., Oct. 15.—Dr. Mills J. Taylor, associate secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, yesterday told the Synod of New York here that the native Ethiopians, while outwardly subdued since the Italian occupation, have not been conquered in spirit, and during the present rainy season, Addis Ababa "has been constantly harassed."

In western Ethiopia the situation "is steadily growing more serious," Dr. Taylor said, adding that the Presbyterian board had been advised by the British Consul "to vacate our station."

The Ottawa Agreement

ALTHOUGH THE OTTAWA Trade Agreement as signed by Canada and Great Britain more than four years ago is to run for five years, considerable attention is being given to it at the present time both in Canada and in Great Britain. The Canadian Minister of Finance on his recent visit to London discussed this problem with the British Government. The fate of the agreement will, of course, depend to a large extent upon Canada's ability or willingness to buy more commodities in Great Britain.

The British have claimed that the Ottawa Agreement has worked, to a large extent, solely to the interest of Canada. They point out that while imports into Great Britain from Canada have materially increased, exports from Great Britain to Canada have lagged behind. An analysis of the trade figures between the Dominion and the United Kingdom proves the validity of the British claim as may be seen from the following table showing our purchases from and our sales to Britain:

	Imports	Exports
1932	$9,508,143	$179,084,627
1933	97,878,232	211,314,610
1934	113,415,984	271,369,655
1935	116,670,227	304,318,894

Thus, while British exports into Canada in 1935 were only $23,000,000 larger than in 1932, exports from Canada to Great Britain in 1935 were $125,000,000 larger than in 1932. The British claim that if Canada wants to enjoy the British market it is the duty of Canadians to buy more from Great Britain.

Although considerable time will elapse before a revision of the agreement will take place, Canadians are giving considerable thought to this problem. Studies are being made to ascertain what markets can be created for British goods and how the trade between the two countries can be better adjusted. This does not imply that Canada will have to import as much from Great Britain as she exports to her, because in addition to paying for imports from Britain, Canada also pays considerable amounts for interest and amortization on Canadian obligations outstanding in Great Britain.

Canadians naturally feel convinced that a satisfactory agreement can be reached between the two countries and that Canada will retain Great Britain as one of the principal outlets for her commodities.

Then—And Today

IT USED TO BE SAID THAT THE Chinese had invented gunpowder long before Europeans and had done nothing with it but make fireworks.

News cables indicate that China is learning fast. So formidable is her present armament of tanks and airplanes and poison gas units, after years of internecine strife and intensive arming, that Chiang Kai-shek's Central Government appears to be abandoning much of the defeatism that has characterized its policy with regard to Japan and to meeting the latest Japanese demands with firm resistance.

Contrast the picture of the unhappy, war-imperilled China of today with the picture Marco Polo—brother of Nicolo and Maffeo—gave us of the China away back in the thirteenth century. Havelock Ellis, distinguished philosopher, thus sums up the description Marco, the first European of modern times to visit China, gave of the city of Hang-Chau:

"He represents the city as the most beautiful and sumptuous in the world, and we must remember that he, himself, belonged to Venice, soon to be known as the most beautiful and sumptuous city of Europe, and had acquired no small knowledge of the world. As he describes its life, so exquisite and refined in its civilization, so humane, so peaceful, so joyous, so well ordered, so happily shared by the whole population, we realize that here had been reached the highest point of urban civilization to which man has ever attained. Marco Polo can think of no word to apply to it—and that again and again—but Paradise."

What a nostalgia for that China of the thirteenth century must be evoked in the emotions of the modern Chinese as he contemplates the China of today! Truly, his country has "gone modern." It fairly bristles with rifles, tanks, airplanes, cannon. But, surely, in his melancholy longing for the past, he can find but scant consolation in the thought that, at last, he has learned what gunpowder is for.

Municipal Debt Increase

ACCORDING TO A STUDY MADE by Mr. Thomas Bradshaw, president of the North American Life Assurance Company, Canada's municipal debt has increased during the last fourteen years by $484,259,000, or 69 per cent. Of this total, $432,000,000 applies to municipalities in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec. On the other hand, in Alberta and Manitoba the municipal indebtedness actually declined by $8,000,000 and $2,500,000, respectively, while in the other five provinces the municipal debt increased by $44,000,000. As a result of this sharp increase, the per capita debt at the present time is 36 per cent larger than fourteen years ago, and ranges from $44.27 in Nova Scotia to $192.50 in British Columbia.

As regards the percentage of assessment, the net debt ranges now from 4.3 per cent in Saskatchewan to 19.5 per cent in Quebec, or an average of 14 per cent for all the municipalities. This increase is particularly disturbing in view of the fact that the value of real estate during the past few years has declined materially and has not yet reached the point where rentals justify the investment. This, of course, did not fail to exercise its influence on the building industry because many prospective builders or investors feel that high taxation is not inducive to the construction of new buildings.

A further analysis of the municipal debt of Canada reveals that those contracted for the purpose of constructing useful public works have turned out quite satisfactory and teach the lesson that municipal debts should be incurred only for the purpose of establishing plants with an assured income sufficient to pay interest and amortization charges.

According to Mr. Bradshaw's study, Canadian municipalities during the last twenty-three years have borrowed $1,534,000,000, of which 22 per cent was obtained in the United States, 8 per cent in Great Britain and the remaining 70 per cent in Canada. The effect of foreign borrowing on the currency and balance of payments position of the Dominion is quite obvious. It is pointed out that those municipalities which have carefully handled their finances are today in a position to borrow at very low rates of interest, but those municipalities which have not handled their finances well find the capital market practically closed to them. They therefore are not in a position to refund their obligations at lower coupon rates, which would reduce the debt service.

In spite of the tremendous increase in the indebtedness of municipalities, defaults have not been frequent and have centered chiefly around important city areas. In Ontario, for example, no county has defaulted, only one village out of 155, four cities out of twenty-eight, and twenty towns out of 146 were forced to default. In view of the improvement in business conditions prevailing in Canada, it is not expected that the Canadian municipalities will endeavor to increase their bonded indebtedness unless for self-liquidating purposes.

No Pyjama Entanglement

THE FOUNDATION OF THAT Nightshirt Club, with branches in Ottawa and New York, seems to have attracted a good deal of attention in various parts of this continent. The object back of the movement was a definite attempt to put pyjamas to a test of popularity with the good old-fashioned nightly regalia which, while not so "fatty" perhaps as the new-fangled sleeping apparel is, so many say, more comfortable. Now, after all, this is a serious business.

The Toronto Star has been aroused. It said the other day that "some of our lively contemporaries, including The Victoria Daily Times and the Ottawa papers, are entangled in an argument as to whether nightshirts or pyjamas should be worn by men. . . . The claim is made that the nightshirt is coming back. This is erroneous, because it never went away. Some statistics on manufactures in Canada not long ago revealed the fact that more nightshirts than pyjamas are made in Canada, and these figures did not include the sleeping garments that are made at home for papas—big, roomy night-shirts made of cotton flannel. A man can enfold himself in one of those capacious garments and keep his feet warm on the coldest winter night." To quote The Star again:

The present writer (speaking for himself only and not wishing to commit modern members of the staff in any way) is a night-shirt man. He admits, and proudly, that he belongs to the nightshirt generation of Canadians. He believes this form of sleeping attire is more comfortable and healthier than any other. If you are wearing pyjamas and roll over in your sleep your pants get twisted and you wake up.

Our colleague of The Star is a man after the heart of many, for he obviously has reached that time of life when he demands comfort in the dark hours of the night so that in the bright hours of the day he may be able to do justice to the job which confronts him. But we have a suspicion that he of The Star does not require a "big, roomy night-shirt" for we believe that a very dainty, free-flowing garment—by no means large—would suitably envelop his figure. In any case, here's to the Nightshirt Club! We fear, however, pyjamas will win.

Pastime: Growing when the weather bureau is 87 per cent right; laughing when it is 13 per cent wrong.

Ignorance is bliss, and the opposite is that sick feeling when the photographer's proofs show the awful truth.

Story of the machine age: Developing dangerous toys faster than man developed the sense to handle them.

The Royal Commission investigating the armaments business in Great Britain has reported against nationalization of the arms industry. This was not an unexpected conclusion. It is to be noted, however, that the committee went on record as in favor of the control of all munition-making business at the outbreak of war, together with the conscription of capital. The latter part of the Royal Commission's resolve—an excellent conclusion, by the way—will cause much flutter in certain dovetails.

LOOSE ENDS

In regard to drunks—there and here—and trees that are worshipped as gods—and fires on the grand scale—and cities turned out like gum—and a stranger's return.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

DRUNKS

IN CALIFORNIA they serve liquor in every second store. You can stand up to a bar as in the good old days and drink as much as you could in the days of '49. In California I only saw one drunk and he came from Washington. Of course, I was only in California a few days, but I was only in Vancouver yesterday for three hours and I saw four drunks, one of them an aged prophet with a white beard who was making speeches on higher economics to people on Granville Street. What this contrast may mean in a larger social sense I have no way of knowing. Perhaps I didn't go to the right places in California. Or perhaps in Vancouver.

STRANGE RACE

THE AMERICANS are a race of strange enthusiasms and contradictions. Their great Pacific Highway for hundreds of miles is a vast scar on the smiling countryside, with a horrid rash of billboards and hot-dog stands breaking out all over the landscape. It is designed simply for speed and the current running rate is sixty, which will be raised to seventy, eighty, ninety and upward during the next few years.

Then you come to the redwoods of California. Here the other side of the American temperament has taken control. They have preserved mile after mile of redwoods, trees which make our Cameron Lake forest look like a small second growth. They worship their redwoods as some races worship heathen gods. The redwood is a cult, a religion. Nothing is allowed to break the calm of the redwood forests, some of them as old as the entire Christian era, some older. There are no signs among the redwoods, no hot-dog stands, no camp fires. You would as soon think of disgracing the redwoods as you would violate a cathedral.

An aged man who lived in the redwood country and made his fortune cutting the trees in the early days, told me with tears running down his cheeks how he had been converted to the redwoods and spent the rest of his life working for their preservation. There are a lot of people like him down there—materialistic, hot-dog-eating Americans who, foreigners believe, have no soul. They have preserved seventy-five miles of redwoods along the main highways of the coast, where we in Canada who pride ourselves on a superior outlook, haven't even preserved Cameron Lake yet, after years and years of talk by our politicians. Indeed, when you see the redwoods and the ocean off California, you wonder secretly why Californians bother to come up here at all.

FIRE

YOU HAVE BEEN READING lately about the great forest fires around Bandon, Oregon, but you cannot imagine what a great forest fire can do until you have seen its results. Of the big town of Bandon nothing was left—literally nothing but a few brick chimneys, a few piles of twisted pipe and a few bathtubs, blackened and cracked. The town of Bandon is just a flat, black smear in the middle of a great dead forest. But already, while the ruins are still smoking, they are being built up again. Wooden buildings are shooting up on all sides, people living in tents, talking and laughing as if nothing had happened; children playing by the charred roadside.

For a hundred miles along the coast the fires broke out in huge spots, miles apart, from sparks blown on the wind. A fire half the size would wipe out the Malahat Highway. You thought of that as you saw it, and remembered that our island was constantly at the mercy of people who leave camp fires burning in the woods and throw cigarette butts about by the roadside. And you remembered that the Americans, with their huge fire-fighting organization, couldn't stop this devastation, while we in British Columbia hardly protect our forests at all. We don't want to spend the money on them. Some day we may have to pay an awful price for that.

IMITATIONS

ALMOST EVERY TOWN in the United States is the exact replica of every other town—the chief hotel all dolled up with modern overfurnished furniture and top vivid rugs; a bellhop overdressed in a fancy uniform; and a coffee shop glittering with black tile; the palatial movie house, sordid with an almost Babylonian luxury like the temple of some half-mad tribe in the jungles of Central America; the main street bright with neon signs; and new stucco store fronts; the other streets all run down and belonging to another pre-war era; the young folks hanging around the soda fountain, trying to kid themselves that this is life.

Everywhere is the New York civilization which has swept America like a vague disease. Every town, no matter how small, is trying to be a little New York, trying to dress up its stores to look like Fifth Avenue, planting stop-and-go lights at the corners to give it a feeling of importance, as if it were crowded like Times Square. Every town in America seems to be turned out of a machine like Mr. Wrigley's gum, in convenient packages and varying sizes but of uniform quality and content.

And yet you hear them complaining that Mr. Roosevelt is trying to regiment the nation. The nation already has regimented itself more completely than any nation in history. But then you come to the redwoods, the sacred, brooding redwoods, worshipped like gods of the forest, and you realize that there is another side to the American's nature.

HOME

THIS MORNING, as the boat came past Beacon Hill, we looked out of the porthole and saw that hideous monument, Victoria's grain elevator which, with the ramshackle buildings of the waterfront, but after raging through the United States at insane speeds, after sweeping through innumerable cities, towns and villages, we were so glad to be back in Victoria that we could have hugged the ghastly grain elevator. It was like an old friend, ugly, but full of goodwill, and when we drove through Victoria out here to Saanich we thought that at last we had found a town that was different from the rest, not turned out by the package, wrapped in cellulose. Perhaps it is native prejudice, but Victoria seems to be in an entirely different and a safer world. Mr. Menzies is to dig in here, den up for the winter and never stir again until spring. Maybe I may get down to writing a column after a while.

DIAMONDS IN INDUSTRY

From The Los Angeles Times
Fewer gem diamonds than industrial diamonds are produced annually. These latter will drill through hard rock and are used extensively for making abrasive wheels true; but more are used in the manufacture of automobiles than in any other industry, some being used in building every car. The diamond is eighty times harder than any other substance.

Letters to The Editor

CIVIC REFUNDING

To the Editor:—May I ask that you insert a copy of letter I am sending to the City Clerk to place before the Acting Mayor and Alderman of the City of Victoria:

Gentlemen:
I see by a letter printed in The Daily Colonist, of October 11, 1936, that John Dean calls your attention to the refusal of your council to agree to a request made relative to the discounts at which our debentures were sold.

"This surely would appear to be a reasonable request, and can only have been made to gather information, the use of which may be of benefit to the ratepayers, and there is no justification to withhold this by stating, 'It can be attained by payment for the service of one of the paid servants of the ratepayer.'"

"It would appear there was no hesitancy in placing before the staff of the comptroller's office to supply Mr. Henley no doubt at considerable time and expense to arrive at his very lengthy report and whatever may be the results, successful or otherwise it would be charged to the ratepayer."

"The information given by Mr. John Dean viz: The town of St. Petersburg, Fla. has reduced a cost of $21,000,000 to $15,000,000, a saving of $6,000,000, should have your grave consideration when this is compared to the scheme now being carried on by Mr. Henley, which if successful may affect the taxpayer in some reduction of interest at a cost of some $45,000, but will, it is stated, have a further million around our necks of a million ($1,000,000) over and above our capital debt. I wonder did this appear before the council in any report from Mr. Henley."

"Mr. Dean further states 'The council's refusal to state the discounts at which our debentures were sold can be taken as an indication that they were shocking, or that the debenture accounts were not properly kept.'"

"If true this is a serious reflection upon the officials in charge and the council as a whole, the ratepayer should have these facts to judge accordingly."

"In any request I have made for data from the several departments I must say they have been given freely and kindly and without cost, and I only want the consent of your council so that the respect of the ratepayer will be held by the many officials working for the city."

"JOHN DEAN"
809 Madison St., Victoria, Oct. 13

MORE "HOWLERS"

From The Amherstburg Echo
The examination of the entrance examination papers in Mr. Bowden's inspectorate had an occasional laugh when reading the papers last week. Here are a couple of highlights:

John Graves Simcoe was the first left-handed governor of Upper Canada.

Talon was the Intendant of New France. He took a great interest in the matter of increasing the population. He taught the women how to have babies.

One bright boy quoted the first few lines of the Burial of Moses thusly: "By Nebow's lonely mountain on this side Georgian Bay."

WHEN KNIGHTS WERE BOLD
From The Guelph Mercury

Some churchmen persist in making a fuss about the word "obey" in the marriage service. Generally, it's merely a reminder of the day long ago when it meant definitely what it said. It's just an ornament now.

PAID FOR PICKING 'EM

Question: Is it correct that the provincial government offers a reward for the discovery of radium in this province?

Answer: The government is empowered, under the "Radium Act," to grant a reward for such discovery in the sum of not exceeding $5,000.

EYE WITNESSES TELL OF CRASH

Further Evidence of Esquimalt Tragedy Given at Assizes

Presentation of evidence in the trial of Herbert Osgood, charged with manslaughter following the fatal car crash on Esquimalt Road on September 5, continued in the Assize Court before Chief Justice Morrison yesterday.

John Buckingham, who was walking home along Esquimalt Road about 2 o'clock on the morning of the accident, testified he had heard a car coming behind him. There had been an explosion and a screech as the car had crashed into the telephone pole. He had gone over to the car and had seen the occupants lying in various positions on the road, all unconscious. A taxi driver had drawn up shortly after, viewed the accident and rushed to a telephone to call the police and ambulance.

In reply to Mr. Davey, Mr. Buckingham stated he remembered the explosion distinctly, but did not know whether or not it was distinct from the crash.

James Williams, taxi driver, told of his party in summoning the police and ambulance.

Constable P. W. Richards, Victoria police, gave evidence on the manner in which one of the injured men had been removed to St. Joseph's Hospital. At the hospital he and Constable Thomas Stevenson reported noting a smell of alcohol on the driver, Osgood. Both testified he had behaved in an erratic manner, Stevenson saying that Osgood's sister had tried to elicit information from him on the crash and had said, referring to Osgood, "Why, you're drunk now." Constable Stevenson was unable to say whether or not Osgood's erratic behavior was due to shock or alcohol.

SMELLED ALCOHOL

Chief Val Pecknold of the Esquimalt police, told the jury he had brought Osgood from the scene of the accident to town. He was injured, his speech was incoherent and his breath smelt of alcohol. Osgood's condition was such, the chief said, he had asked Dr. Moore to examine him.

Constable Gilbert Stancombe, Esquimalt police, gave evidence on skid marks and physical aspects of the crash before identifying exhibits, including broken parts of the car and two bottles containing beer found in the rumble seat. He confirmed distances questioned by the jury before the court adjourned for the day.

Official photographs were presented by A. H. Dobson.

BEST BABIES TO BE JUDGED

Competition to Be Held at Winter Fair October 26

Victoria's second annual Best Baby competition, with silver cups donated by The Victoria Daily Times and Daily Colonist and other valuable prizes, will be held on Monday, October 26, at the Winter Fair. It is announced by the Tourist Trade Development Association.

The competition will be divided into three classes, with silver cups as first prizes in each class.

Babies under six months old will compete in the first class and babies six to twelve months old and twelve to eighteen months old in the other two.

The association expects Dr. H. E. Young, provincial health officer, and the members of the Justice and St. Joseph's Hospitals to accept an invitation to judge the babies.

Every baby entered in the contest will have its picture taken free.

Those who wish to enter babies in the competitions are asked to make entries immediately at the Tourist Trade Development office in the Chamber of Commerce on Government Street.

The contest will start promptly at 2:30 o'clock on the first afternoon of the fair, which will run from October 26 until midnight, October 31.

The babies, each with one guardian, who will be admitted free, must be at the Armistice by 1:30 o'clock, the committee announces. Doors will be open to the general public at 2 o'clock.

NANAIMO WILL BUILD BRIDGE

Bastion Street Structure to Cost $45,000 Endorsed By Ratepayers

Nanaimo, Oct. 15.—Nanaimo ratepayers yesterday voted to build a modern concrete bridge across the ravine linking up Bastion and Fitzwilliam streets.

Voting on the by-law showed that out of 795 ratepayers who cast their ballots, 490 voted for the new type of bridge with 202 against, fourteen ballots being spoiled.

The new bridge, which will replace the wooden structure condemned last May 24, will be 22 feet wide, with sidewalks 7 feet 6 inches in width. The curbs will be 9 inches deep to prevent cars mounting the sidewalk.

The spans will be in duplicate, two of 77 feet and two of 63 feet. Provision has been made for contraction and expansion by means of end roller bearings at the east and west abutments.

Ornamental light standards with octagonal shaded lamps will be installed.

The cost of the structure is estimated at $45,000. Cost to the individual ratepayer will be $1.75 per annum per $1,000 of land assessment.

Sixty per cent of the cost of the bridge will be returned to the city in labor and materials.

Pupils to Send Japan Exhibit

Plans to have work of Victoria school pupils exhibited at the Pan-Pacific peace exhibition in Japan next year were prepared by the city school trustees yesterday evening.

The board received a letter forwarded from the publicity bureau asking for samples of the local pupils' work and the matter was referred to Inspector G. H. Deane to discuss with school principals.

SCHOOL BOARD HAS SURPLUS

Trustees May Use $3,130 Balance of Last Year's Budget If Required

The City School Board this year has on hand a surplus of $3,130 from last year's budget which it may use to meet any emergency expenditure should the need arise, Chairman W. C. Moreshy, K.C., reported to his fellow trustees yesterday evening.

In making reference to the surplus the chairman did not stipulate there was any particular emergency for which the money might be required, but said that under the Municipal Act the board could use a previous year's surplus if it so desired.

The board at the present time is considering application of the new Department of Education curriculum which may require an additional expenditure for equipment.

A financial report submitted to the trustees yesterday evening indicated they were again headed for creation of a surplus on this year's budget. The statement covered receipts and expenditures to date.

Out of a total levy of $492,520, the board has spent $349,080. The expenditure for the same period last year was $340,955, but this year's estimate called for greater expenditures than 1935.

All departments are within estimates, the statement showed.

An offer from the Quadra Parent-Teacher Association of the organization's willingness to contribute $600 towards removal of rock on Quadra School grounds was referred to the building and grounds committee by the City School Board yesterday evening.

School Staffs Are Commended

Fire drills as carried out in city schools and the general maintenance of school buildings by janitorial staffs in regard to fire hazards, were commended by Fire Chief Alex Munroe in a letter to the City School Board yesterday evening.

In connection with the recent observance of national fire prevention week, the chief and his officers inspected all city school buildings.

He mentioned particularly the discipline and speed with which the High School fire drill was carried out.

In closing his letter, the chief made certain recommendations for removal of fire hazards in various school buildings, which included the following: Installation of independent fire alarm systems in schools where they are not in operation, central heating in several schools to heat annexes in which are at present located hazardous heaters, repairs to verandahs at South Park School, and use of metal instead of wood containers.

The recommendations were referred to the buildings and grounds committee for report.

Weddings

STOCKLEY—HEYWORTH

Centennial United Church was attractively decorated with bronze and yellow chrysantheums and Michaelmas daisies for the wedding last night of Alice Matal, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Heyworth, 2544 Government Street, and Mr. William Allan Stockley, only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Stockley, 484 Nelson Street, Esquimalt.

Rev. Andrew D. Reid, D.D., officiated. Mrs. Paul Green played the wedding marches, and also accompanied Mrs. W. Petrie, who sang "I Love You Truly," as the register was being signed.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a form-fitting frock of ivory satin with a cowl-neck embroidered with pearls, and a bandeau of silver flowers in her hair, and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and carnations.

The bride and groom were bridesmaids, Miss Margaret Heyworth in a pretty frock of peach-net, carrying a bouquet of mauve and pink chrysantheums, and Miss Irene Stockley in a floor-length frock of blue net, and carried a bouquet of peach, gladioli and pink carnations.

They both wore hair bandeaus of silver ribbon. The best man was Mr. Ronald Cragg, and Mr. Colin Langthorne and Mr. Howard Rayner were ushers.

A small reception was held after the service at the home of the bride's parents, where a profusion of chrysantheums were used in decoration, and a three-tier cake centred the supper table.

After a short honeymoon on the mainland, the bride and groom will make their home in Esquimalt.

Among the gifts was a case of flat silver from the former associates of the bride at the Empress Laundry.

Centennial W.M.S.—Rev. and Mrs. S. Peat of Gorge Road, held "open house" to Centennial auxiliary and friends on Tuesday for the annual thank offering meeting. The gathering was large and the thanksgiving devotions took the form of the beautiful service of worship sent out by Dominion board. Mrs. Peat reported flowers and letters of sympathy sent to her and afflicted members, and read grateful acknowledgments of the same. The treasurer and corresponding secretary reported.

Henderson spoke in praise of the new study book "Men and Women of Far Horizons." Accompanied by Mrs. Jeffrey, Mrs. Leitch gave an appreciated solo. The guest speaker was Dr. Reid, bringing an inspiring message on missionary work in comparison with the work of general societies, and recalled that not long ago the Dominion Board of W.M.S. had contributed $15,000 to help the general board. There is no work comparable to missionary work in bringing about a better understanding among the nations, he maintained. Dr. Reid was warmly thanked by the president, Mrs. Farquhar, offering $84.70. Mrs. Rogers presented the benediction. Mrs. Peat and a committee served afternoon tea and a social half hour was enjoyed.

Mr. W. R. Beavan, Nanaimo; Mr. L. B. Lovejoy, Seattle, and Mr. O. Cameron, Vancouver.

At this morning's session Miss Phoebe, vice-president for western Canada, gave an interesting report covering the activities of the W.A. in this section.

Yesterday the educational secretary, Miss Helen Cattinach, reported satisfactory progress in the work of her department. The lantern slides on the study book have proved of great educational value and the competitions had aroused much interest.

BIG THANK OFFERING
Mrs. D. B. Donaldson, treasurer, reported the thank offering for 1936 amounted to $11,729.50, and the Doxology was sung following this announcement.

The girls' secretary, Mrs. E. G. Hewson, reported encouraging aspects of the work of W.A. girls, of whom there were 490 branches with increased membership. She spoke of the value of the summer camps.

The president of the A.Y.P. Association brought a greeting to the Dominion board, expressing the need for all church organizations to work together. Rev. Harding Pries also expressed greetings and good wishes to the board.

The report of the children's work was given by Mrs. C. C. Abbott, who told of an increase in membership of over 1,000 and much valuable work accomplished. Through the "Little Helpers" the mothers are also reached. The Living Message, for juniors, is proving a success and the various competitions are enthusiastically taken up.

Prayers were read by Mrs. Strachan, vice-president.

Greetings were received from Mrs. Gilbert Ferrabee, Dr. Hiltz, Bishop Geddes and the Bishops of the Arctic and Athabasca, all expressing deep gratitude for the help given to the work in their dioceses.

FINANCES LOW
In her audited report, Mrs. R. E. Taylor, the treasurer, noted receipts for the year ending September 30 included: cash donations, $3,004.75; workroom earnings, $1,559.56; direct relief, $4,283.57; making a total of $9,147.88. Disbursements for the same year included wages to the women, $9,436.80; salaries to manager and supervisors, $1,199; materials, $260.52; expenses, $74.42, making a total of $10,970.74. The audited statement showed that cash donations had dropped from $9,923.52 the first year to the past year's $3,004.75, and workroom earnings were in almost the same proportion. Special attention was called to the very low expense, $74.42, made possible through the generosity of friends.

Miss Ogilvie, convener of finances, noted that $5,000 a year was required to carry on the work.

VOLUNTEER ASSISTANCE
Mrs. J. W. Gibson, convener of the workroom committee, in her report paid tribute to the members of the committee who have served with her during the last year. Mrs. C. Swaine, Mrs. A. ## Women's Workroom In Need of Funds

Moving Plea Made at Annual Meeting; $5,000 a Year Needed; Treasury Down to $182; Mrs. L. A. Genge Again President

A moving plea for assistance for the Women's Workroom, which has for the last five years been helping jobless women, many of them too old or ailing to obtain work in the ordinary labor market, was made at the annual meeting of the committee last night.

Mrs. L. A. Genge, the president, called attention to "the depressing note" in the financial report, namely, the small balance in the bank, $182.36, and noted that the Workroom is not self-supporting as many people erroneously supposed.

She paid tribute to the late Miss Bay Willey who was the moving spirit behind the organization and maintenance of the workroom from its inception in 1931.

FINANCES LOW

Disbursements for the same year included wages to the women, $9,436.80; salaries to manager and supervisors, $1,199; materials, $260.52; expenses, $74.42, making a total of $10,970.74. the shopping, to call for and deliver orders to the homes, and to bring the money from the bank to pay the wages, the report continued.

"We have continued to send out sacks to be filled with used clothing. This we remodel and sell very cheaply. From the material shover held last November in Mrs. Morkill's home our shelves were re-stocked with flannellette for pyjamas, lengths of print for smocks and house-dresses, fancy bags, etc. The donations of lavender have been turned to account. Recently a cheque for $250 was received from a consignment of sachets sent to Montreal.

KIND FRIENDS
"We are also indebted to kind friends at Bamfield for generous donations of used clothing. We have had further donations of sewing machines, and the Pioneer, Cagood's Economy, Walter Walker, and Rose. Four firms have donated coal and kindling for the workroom and the shop during the winter months. The Economy-Laundry continues to do our heavy pieces free of charge, and the sawdust used in cleaning our floors is provided through the courtesy of T. H. C.

In addition to the above the Workroom has had generous donations of material from David Spencer Limited, supplies from Hudson's Bay Company and quantities of heavy garments from Salvation Army. Reference was also made to the kindness of individual members of the committee, and to the press for its support.

NUMBERS FEWER
In conclusion, Mrs. Gibson noted the decrease in the number of those receiving assistance: "Many of our women have found other occupations. Some have now the old age pension, and some have left the province. The response to our coming appeal for funds will determine our policy in the next few months. We shall do our best to justify the confidence placed in us during the past five years by our generous and sympathetic friends."

MATERIAL SHOWER
Mrs. Alex Gillespie noted that sales at the shop, 623 Yates Street, totaled $1,321.40. She reminded members of the material shover, to be held at the home of Miss Fitzgibbon on Wednesday, November 18. Mrs. Denton Holmes, convener, flannellette, lengths of tweed, wool for knitting and other supplies will be welcome.

Miss Fitzgibbon reported for the investigation committee.

Mrs. L. A. Genge was re-elected to office, and other officers for the ensuing year were re-elected as follows: Mrs. J. W. Gibson, vice-president; Miss Lola Maxwell, secretary; Mrs. R. E. Taylor, treasurer; Miss Fitzgibbon, convener of investigation; Mrs. Alex Gillespie, convener of shop; Miss Ogilvie, finance, and Mrs. C. Swaine, employment.

The meeting instructed the secretary to send letters of thanks to the auditor, Mr. Reginald Genn, to Miss French, for typing, and to Miss Noonan of the Sprott Shaw School, for help.

Mission Work Along Coast Described

Dominion W.A. Hear
Enlightening
Talks By Workers

The Memorial Hall was filled to capacity last night for the public missionary meeting held in conjunction with the annual convention of the Dominion W.A. to the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada.

Dean Quinlan presided and the speakers included Bishop G. A. Rix of the diocese of Caledonia, Rev. Alan Greene of the Columbia Coast Mission; Rev. W. H. Gale of the Japanese Mission, and Miss Helliaby of the Chinese Mission in Vancouver. Bishop G. A. Rix opened the proceedings with prayer.

MISSION SHIP BUSY

High tribute to Rev. John Antle, his predecessor, was paid by Mr. Greene in his story of the work accomplished by the Columbia Coast Mission. With a series of fine motion pictures in natural colors, he took his audience on an interesting trip in the hospital ship Columbia, engaged in its healing mission in the tiny settlements along the coast.

Mr. Greene mentioned that the new hospital ship, the Florida V, shortly to be renamed, the John Antle, was in earnest need of a radio-telephone transmission and receiving set, if the ship is to keep in touch with her widely-scattered clientele of loggers and settlers.

Bishop Rix took up the story of coast mission work, telling what is being done by the Prince Rupert Coast mission. After tracing the early history and struggles encountered by the pioneers in this work, the bishop recalled that for seventeen years the ship Northern Cross has plied her way along the shores of northern British Columbia, and the Western Jope had ministered to the needs of the Queen Charlotte Islands. Excellent hospitals are situated on the coast mainland, and the boats serve in a large measure as ambulances, conveying patients to these hospitals. Literature is carried from one settlement to another, messages taken, and the clergy are kept in touch with their people.

In appealing for more general support of the work, he thanked the W.A. for their gift of $250, and the M.S. C. C. for a similar donation to the cause.

Thanks for sympathetic support were also tendered to the W.A. by Rev. W. H. Gale on behalf of the Japanese missions and congregations of British Columbia. Curialment of funds had greatly hampered the growth and expansion of the work, there being at present only one ordained Japanese priest to carry the Gospel to over 20,000 Japanese in the province.

Reference was made to the good work done by Miss Hirano and Miss Suzuki—Vancouver; and at Salt Spring Island, where an active A.Y.P.A. was organized recently. Mr. Gale deplored the "superiority complex of the white people" towards the Orientals in their midst, stating that "we do not extend a friendly welcome to them, even in our churches," and he appealed to the W.A. and ladies to more friendly attitude towards them.

Miss Helliaby, who has been doing mission work among the Chinese in Vancouver for seventeen years, gave many interesting stories from her experience. Reference was made to the mission centres at Cumberland, Vernon and Victoria, the work including the teaching of teen-age boys and girls, the Church Boys' League, Girl Guides, Brownies, a young people's society, an evening branch of the W.A., a women's Bible class, a reading class, a vacation school in the summer, and work among the single, homeless Chinese men, for whom meals and lodging are provided.

Sunday School Work Reviewed

A social of much interest to the teachers of the Presbyterian Sunday schools in Victoria was held by the Council of Sunday Schools for that denomination in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Friday last.

The chairman, R. M. Hall, in his opening remarks called attention to some of the important aims and objects of the council, which were "to inculcate faith in God and a reverent study of the Bible as the Word of God." To develop a teacher training class from which vacancies in Sunday school class work could be filled. To develop activities leading up to vocational training and physical development.

The minister, and superintendents of the schools represented each gave a short address on the responsibilities of the teachers towards the children. The keynote of Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell's address was educational evangelism. Rev. Mackie Niven stressed the need of personal experience of Christianity before being qualified to teach the vital truths of that faith. Rev. T. McAllister was pleased he would be able to give an encouraging report in the Vancouver Synod of the interest shown in the movements of the council. Rev. J. Hyde spoke of teachers of the Sunday school as being in the place of "servants of the Most High God."

The following superintendents of the various schools spoke in the same strain: Mr. Baxter, Mr. D. Muir, Mr. Bracken and also a former superintendent, Mr. Scobie, Miss Gertrude

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETE SALLAWAY

REFEREEING, the most important part of football, is once more being given the attention of the authorities in England. Last season, efforts were made to give referees advice and instruction in order to raise the standard of the control of matches. Now the plans of 1935 have been revised with the chief object an endeavor to make uniform the system of control by referees and linesmen.

S. F. Rous, secretary of the English Football Association, and also known all over the football world for his ability as a referee, has done, and still is doing, a great deal for this important side of the game. He points out that while common sense plays a big part in the control of football many errors would be obviated if referees adopted the diagonal plan.

This plan means that referees should keep generally to an "imaginary" diagonal line across the field. Each linesman would be responsible for one set of forwards and in an attack would be "up" with the line.

If that scheme were adopted, the referee would always know where his assistants were positioned and every section of the field of play would be under official observation. Also, there would always be two officials up with every attack and in excellent positions—one on each side of the field.

When a referee, Rous always used the diagonal plan and he received such favorable comment on its success that he put forward this scheme for general adoption.

For the scheme to be carried out satisfactorily, Rous has drafted another film script to be added to the instructional film on football made last year. This film will deal almost entirely with referees and the best positions of officials.

Rous states that far too much time is wasted in taking free-kicks and throw-ins.

After the ball has been placed in position, players often kick it away to allow their team to get into position to cover their opponents.

"The practice is childish and annoying," he says. "Officers should be cautioned and, on repetition of the offence should be ordered off."

In the case of a penalty kick he suggests that one linesman should stand on the goal-line at the point where the penalty area line joins it.

The second should be on the touch-line on his side, about a third the way down the field. The referee should take up his position on the side of the penalty area opposite to the first linesman.

How would you like to play a golf course devoid of those pesky traps? You may in the future if A. W. Tillinghast, Philadelphia golf architect, has his way.

The Quaker designer is advocating such a move, or at least a drastic reduction of traps, asserting that duffers are being driven from the game because of the penalties exacted by the hazards.

The Pennsylvania designer of 400 courses, recently was in Detroit propounding his theories.

The American Legion Junior Baseball League is paying its way. Supported by the major leagues for several years, and carried on by the Legion, it has sent sixteen to the majors in its comparatively short career.

Those who made the grade with big league outfits are: Third baseman Lee Handley and pitcher Lee Stine and Dick Kramer of the Cincinnati Reds; infielder Alfred Kelley of the New York Giants; outfielder Bud Hafey of the Pittsburgh Pirates; Jerome Yarter and Stan Bolton of the Philadelphia Athletics; Buddy Lewis and Archie Scrivener of the Washington Senators; Kit Carson of the Cleveland Indians; Angelo Giardini and Ron Hogest of the St. Louis Browns; Bobby Doer of the Boston Red Sox and John Salveson of the Chicago White Sox.

Ward Four Saanich Ratepayers' Association, at a meeting in Marigold Hall Tuesday, elected officers as follows: President, W. H. Golden; vice-president, J. W. Rook; secretary, treasurer, C. D. Atkinson; executive, W. J. Lynn, C. Singleton, H. Hardy, G. Young and W. Saunders.

New York Subway Slugger Knocks Out Eric Seelig

Former Brakeman Puts German Away in First Round

Will Probably Get Title Bout

New York, Oct. 15.—It's going to take a lot of convincing to convince New York fight fans that Harry Balsamo, the subway slugger, doesn't rate a shot at middleweight champion Freddie Steele's crown.

The ex-brakeman from the subway loomed larger than ever in the 160-pound picture today as a result of his one-minute victory over Eric Seelig, German refugee, who is rated among the top Europeans in the division.

The victory last night, coming via the technical knockout route in 1:04 of the first round, marked Balsamo's sixteenth knockout win in twenty fights since he brought his heavy-hitting ability out of the subway to turn pro a little more than a year ago. Balsamo, at 182½, outweighed his rival by a quarter pound.

Balsamo didn't give the Teuton a chance to get started. Ripping in with the gong he cut loose with an attack that kept Seelig on the canvas almost continuously until the referee intervened.

The 5,000 spectators had scarcely settled themselves until Balsamo caught Seelig flush on the jaw with a punishing right and sent the invader down for a count of nine.

Seelig pulled himself to his feet in time to run squarely into another jolting right and another visit to the floor, this time for a count of nine.

Dazed and groggy, he pulled himself erect. Balsamo was waiting with a left to the body, followed by another right to the chin, which drove Seelig almost through the ropes. The time-keeper was intoning "Three" when Marco halted the slaughter.

Johnny Morris, Fordham University student, outpunched Lou Camps, of New York, in a ten-round, 129½ for Camps. It was a listless exhibition.

HOCKEY STAR IN LAWSUIT

Doug Young, Captain Detroit Wings, Being Sued For $10,000 By Woman Fan

Detroit, Oct. 15.—Detroit Red Wings violated club tradition yesterday when they re-elected Doug Young, defenceman, Glenora, Alta., as the captain of the 1936-37 hockey team. Young became the first Red Wing player so honored.

A moment later Young received another notification for which he offered no thanks. He was informed to be ready for trial of a $10,000 damage suit some time during the fall term of Circuit Court. A woman hockey fan is suing him, alleging that he tried to high-kick a Toronto player during a game two years ago and that the stick struck her instead. She was seated in the front row against the boards.

Young's defence is that it must have been somebody else because the official records of the game disclose no penalty for him, which he would receive had he high-kicked.

The trial will bring President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League and other notables to Detroit as witnesses.

ALL-STARS WIN

Winnipeg, Oct. 15.—Canada All-Stars won their first game of the "examination" series at New York Rangers' hockey school here when they defeated New York Rangers 7 to 6 last night after losing the two previous contests.

Sidney Pann, last year with Trail's British Columbia junior champions, scored the winning goal thirty-one seconds from the end of the game on a solo dash.

BAYS PRACTICE

A workout of the B.C.A.A. senior rugby fifteen will be held this evening at Macdonald Park at 6 o'clock. All players are asked to turn out.

Acting Mayor To Open Rugby

Acting Mayor James Adam will officially open the 1936-37 rugby season here on Saturday when he puts the ball in motion in the B.C.A.A. Canadian Scottish senior fixture at Macdonald Park at 3 o'clock. The match is the only senior game billed for the day.

Seeks Control Of Ball Club

G. F. Vanderveer Brings Action Against Officials of Seattle Team

Seattle, Oct. 15.—A Superior Court fight for control of the Seattle Baseball Club loomed yesterday after George F. Vanderveer, a major stockholder, brought legal action against President William H. Klepper and Secretary C. Norman Dickinson.

Vanderveer sought to obtain stock which he said was assigned to him by W. Vern Klepper, son of the club president.

Superior Judge Roscoe R. Smith ordered Klepper Sr. and Dickinson to turn over the stock in question or show cause in court October 26.

President Klepper, Vanderveer and John E. Savage are the three major stockholders. During the last three years Klepper and Savage have stuck together, leaving Vanderveer in the minority.

"Now that we seem to be on our way out of debt and in a position to pay dividends again, Vanderveer wants control," Klepper said.

SCHOOL RUGBY LEAGUE OPENS

Victoria High Golds and Blues Draw; Oak Bay High Boys Score Win

The Victoria-Oak Bay High School Rugby League got under way yesterday with two games being played, one on the Victoria High School grounds and the other on the Oak Bay High School grounds.

At the Victoria High School grounds the Victoria High School Blues and Golds battled to a 3 to 3 deadlock.

The Golds opened the scoring half way through the first half when Douglas Bray, clever forward, picked up the ball in a scrumage on the five-yard line and barged over the line for the Golds only points.

Early in the second half the Blues evened the score when Norman Cook vinced over the line after receiving a smart pass from Ngai.

Port Hamilton, New York Bay, in August, 1919, Charles Atlas came to the aid of five persons in a small pleasure boat who had lost their oars.

Undeterred by rough water caused by an approaching storm, Atlas waited the anchor chain around his waist and towed the boat, with its occupants, the full mile to shore.

CHINESE VS. JAPANESE According to the latest figures obtainable, there are approximately 75,000 Chinese living in the United States and about 139,000 Japanese. The total number of Chinese in the world is more than 400,000,000, while the number of Japanese is somewhat under 80,000,000.

SONNY BUXTON IN FINE WIN

Victoria Heavyweight Rallies to Capture Decision From Tiny Cooper

Vancouver, Oct. 15.—Victoria's Sonny Buxton struck out today along the fistic trail that leads to that vacant Canadian heavyweight throne he has claimed so long and there was no doubt in the minds of Vancouver fight fans that he would reach his goal.

The Victorian, now a protégé of Ted Moore, Vancouver, demonstrated his right to hit the championship trail here last night as he came back after taking a seven count in the first round, to hammer out a unanimous decision over Tiny Cooper, bulky Portlander, in a head-line bout.

Tiny Cooper, tiny in name only, caught Buxton's sharp right to the head after their frames were led then a minute old and the islander went down on his hands and knees and shook his head. But he got up again and weathered the rest of the round and came out fighting in the second to hold his opponent even.

THE HUMAN TOWBOAT Swimming a mile off shore from Buxton took command of the situation in the third and was the master from then on. Though the Portlander tied him up a few times in the late rounds, he took every round from the third on but was unable to render a knockout blow.

Buxton sealed 179 and Cooper 178. On the same card Vancouver's Billy Townsend, Canadian welter champ of former years, continued his attempt to again climb the ladder to fistic fame as he took a three-way call over Henry Kenzie, Portlander, in ten rounds.

It was Townsend's second victory in as many weeks along his comeback route. Last week he scored a two-round knockout over Billy Olson.

WINS AT NEWMARKET Canadian Press

Newmarket, Eng., Oct. 15.—Lord Derby's Fair Copy today won the Mid-day Park Stakes with a margin of three-quarters of a length over M. M. Boussac's Goya, second. Major H. Gayer's Streamstown ran third, four lengths back.

MINOR HOCKEY OPENING Buffalo, N.Y., Oct. 15.—With a tentative schedule drawn up, the new International-American Hockey League today needed only a few finishing touches by its board of governors before the grand opening November 7.

The inaugural will send Syracuse to Buffalo, Pittsburgh to Cleveland, New Haven to Philadelphia, and Providence to Springfield.

COHAN AND DODGERS New York, Oct. 15.—Notorious as a peddler of misinformation, Broadway was today with an old-fashioned rumor and a new set of fancy figures.

The rumor was that George M. Cohan, actor, dramatic author, manager, composer, and insurance baseball addict, was still interested in buying Brooklyn Dodgers.

Obviously, there was no way to check the figures, and Cohan merely laughed at the rumor.

"I think I could make a lot of dough with them on Broadway," he said, of the Dodgers.

MARANVILLE GETS JOB Montreal, Oct. 15.—Hector Racine, president of Montreal Royals in the International Baseball League, said last night that Rabbit Maranville, former veteran shortstop of Boston, would be signed as manager for the Royals in 1937 when he comes to Montreal next Sunday.

PLENTY CLOSE It was a fast, thrilling affair with players on both sides battling every inch of the way. The score was tied all of a half-dozen times during the forty minutes of play, and the fans who were few, gave the winners a good hand.

The Liberty Cafe, which is nearly the same team that played under the colors of the Island Tug Red Stacks last year, held a 14 to 13 lead at half-time. There was nothing to choose between the two clubs.

"Chuck" Sharp was the high scorer with fourteen points. Campbell and Jones were high men for the Merchants with eight apiece.

The Regents were outclassed in the first half, which ended with Kingham-Gillespie in the lead, 18 to 3. In the second frame the youngsters lost some of their nervousness and made a better showing.

L. Passmore took the honors for high scoring. He got fourteen of the coal merchants, total, while Norman Parfitt led the losers with eight points.

AME OUTCLASSED Lacking the punch and scoring ability of their opponents, the Unitys, with a new and young line-up, were completely outclassed by Burnetts, who checked in with a 37 to 17 victory.

Doreen Beere, sharp-shooting forward, secured a season-end total of 20 points. The Burnetts, while E. Snyder led in the Unitys with seven points, scored 26.

Burnetts—D. Beere 17, P. Whyte 4, D. Anderson 2, A. Taylor, J. Phillips, J. Wilson 6, P. Addison 6 and V. Sinclair 2. Total 37.

Unitys—E. Snyder 7, C. Reid 3, V. Edwards 2, M. Medler 5, P. Goddard and D. Crow. Total 17.

Kingham-Gillespie—H. Rowe 2, B. Berry 6, J. Phillips 5, J. Anderson 1, L. Passmore 14 and E. Foster 2. Total 28.

Regents—E. Parry, G. Spark 4, V. Dab 2, L. Trolan, R. Parfitt 8 and A. Kirkbride 4. Total 18.

Trophy Play At Gorge Vale Club

The Wenger Trophy two-ball foursomes will be played on Saturday and Sunday at the Gorge Vale Golf Club. Players will arrange their own starting times.

The show will open at 8.45 o'clock with two local boys appearing in the preliminary.

"I don't think we could invite a stronger side," E. J. Ketchen, Victoria, president of the Rugby Union of Canada, said. "They are a first-rate fifteen and will be able to hold their own with any team."

The meeting also decided to notify Calgary Bronks, a pre-Christmas series with them would be out of the question owing to an already heavy schedule. A series may be arranged later in the season, however.

Captures Second Race at Tanforan Track to Pay $20.60 For $2

San Francisco, Oct. 15.—B. D. Powers, owned by E. H. Bezley, Omaha, nosed out the favorite, Cuyamaca, to capture the featured all-ages race at Tanforan yesterday. The time was 1:12.

The Pelican, who placed third, set the pace but gave way to Cuyamaca in the stretch. B. D. Powers came (Turn to Page 18, Col. 3).

Nose Out Hoyle-Brown 28 to 26 to Take Over Lead in Men's Senior B Division of City League; Burnetts and Kingham-Gillespie Winners

Liberty Cafe cagers, smooth-working ball handlers, advanced to the top of the men's senior B loop yesterday evening when they emerged from one of the most action-cramped skirmishes fought on the maple courts this season, with a 28 to 26 victory over Hoyle-Brown in the feature match on a three-game card presented at the High School gym by the Victoria and District Basketball League.

Boy Whyte's Burnetts did not find much opposition in Wally Yeamans's Unitys, and won the women's game 37 to 17. The opener saw Kingham-Gillespie open their season with a 23 to 18 win over the Regents in an intermediate A boys' contest.

Dave Naysmith, seventeen-year-old hooper who last year operated in the Sunday School ranks, was responsible for the basket that gave Liberty Cafe a win over the Merchants. With less than a minute and a half left to play, Naysmith dropped home a beauty to give his team a two-point lead, which they held to the finish.

Gen. C. A. Blacklock Dies at Simcoe, Ont.

Simcoe, Ont., Oct. 15.—Major-General C. A. Blacklock, fifty-five, died in a hospital here yesterday.

He had an outstanding military career and was one of the youngest generals in the British army when at the age of thirty-seven he took over the command of the 63rd Royal Naval Division on August 30, 1918. His division operated on the right front of the first Canadian Division in the attack on the Canal du Nord, September 2 and 3, 1918.

Born in England, he served in the King's Royal Rifle in the Boer War, holding the rank of Captain when only nineteen years.

Governor Watches Poppies Being Made

Hon. Eric W. Hamber Takes Keen Interest in Work
Carried Out By Disabled
Veterans During Visit to Red Cross Workshop

Showing a keen interest in every detail of the work of making Remembrance Day poppies and wreaths and in all the other activities carried out by disabled Great War veterans, Hon. Eric W. Hamber, Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, spent forty-five minutes yesterday afternoon visiting the Red Cross workshop on Johnson Street.

His Honor was shown around the shops by S. H. Okell, manager, accompanied by Charles Hensley, chairman of the Red Cross workshop committee, General Sir Percy Lake and Mr. H. Hensley, committee members. Commander C. R. R. Slingsby, chairman of the Remembrance Day committee; J. Waterston, campaign manager; and C. A. Gill, secretary.

The Lieutenant-Governor asked a host of questions of his guides, conversed with the men working in each section of the shops, and carefully examined the various products. At the end of his visit he placed an order for a large wreath.

FIRST AND LAST SHOP

Among the facts which he learned during the course of his visit were the following: That the Victoria shop was the first Red Cross Workshop formed, dating from April, 1921, and that it is the last in existence, two similar establishments in eastern Canada being operated by the Dominion Government.

That the Victoria shop supplies all the poppies and wreaths for the entire province, providing work for the round for disabled veterans in their manufacture. This year's output includes well over 200,000 poppies of various sizes and more than 1,000 wreaths.

That in its various activities the Red Cross Workshop gives employment to thirty disabled men who otherwise could find no work.

VISITS DEPARTMENTS

His Honor visited the woodworking, chair-caning, metal-working, picture-framing and paint shops, carefully watching each operation.

In the woodworking shop he examined specimens of the various British Columbia woods employed in the making of tables, cabinets, chairs and other furniture, and in the metal shop he saw stovepipes and dustbins in every stage of their manufacture from the sheet metal to the finished articles.

He expressed especial interest in the fact that many of the machines in the Red Cross Workshop had been made by the men themselves.

The Lieutenant-Governor concluded his visit by complimenting the manager and staff, and by pledging his support for the Remembrance Day poppy selling campaign.

FAVOR YOUNGER MEN AS JANITORS

Future applications for janitorial services in city schools will be considered in the light of superannuation liabilities. It was announced by the city school board yesterday evening.

The question arose from an inquiry from the Canadian Legion asking if there was a board regulation limiting the age of employment to twenty-six years.

To this question the trustees replied negatively, but added that formerly, when the matter was discussed, the trustees had indicated they individually favored younger men for janitorial work because of the burden placed upon the taxpayers by employment of older men when they became eligible for superannuation.

TRANS-PACIFIC FLIGHT

By DECK MORGAN

Copyright, 1936

BEGIN HERE TODAY
KAY DUNN, pretty young nurse, applies for a job at stewardess on the Overland Airways. In the Overland office she encounters TED GRAHAM, veteran pilot of Trans-Pacific Airways, and largely due to his intervention, she is accepted for trial period.

Two other girls, DORIS LEE and ALICE MILLER, are accepted on the same basis.
Kay, excited over winning the job, steps to tell Graham the news. Graham, who flies the Trans-Pacific route, is on his way to San Francisco. He shows Kay about the office. When his plane arrives and he waves goodbye, she wonders if she will ever see him again.

Kay meets Doris and Alice and the three discuss the day's events.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER IV
The east-bound plane left the Central Airport at 8:05 o'clock with the three stewardesses on board. They wore new uniforms of gray tulle, like the pilots on the Overland Airways. As preliminary instruction they watched the regular hostess on duty. She brought the passengers pillows, newspapers, magazines. There was cotton to be stuffed into ears.

Kay leaned back in the comfortable chair and watched the twinkling lights of the vast, sprawling city disappear in the darkness below. It was a thrilling sight. She had become used to the sound of the motors, and felt no sensation except that of joyous adventure.
She had to pinch herself once like a child, to see if it were all true. Here she was on her way to New York!

Only the night before she had been one of those infinitesimal creatures down there, going home to sleep in a tiny bed. Tonight she was flying through the air!
The co-pilot came along the corridor of the liner, and Kay spoke to him. The co-pilot was a blond young man who had the most flashing pair of blue eyes she had ever seen. He glanced down at her, saw her uniform, and promptly sat down in the chair beside her.

He said, "I beg your pardon. I didn't understand."
"The westbound plane that left

Central Airport at 2:10 o'clock," Kay repeated. "Where would it be now?"
The blond young man glanced at his wrist-watch. "Cheyenne," he repeated. "The Indian name 'Cheyenne'!"
The boy laughed, and leaned close to her. "Boy friend on that plane? Women are all alike. They won't let a guy alone even when he's in the air!"

Kay's teeth flashed. "Concetti!"
"I don't think I've seen you on this run before," he added, nonchalantly. "Just a trial flight? I'm Chuck Jones, co-pilot."
"It's my first flight," she told him. "You don't think I'll be sick or anything?"

Chuck laughed. "Oh, we'll have smooth flying tonight—might get some bumps over the Alleghenies, but I don't think so."
He looked around and saw the two girls—Alice and Doris—in uniform. "What's this?" he exclaimed. "A girls' boarding-school?"
Kay laughed. "Three of us taken on today. I hope we all make the grade."

Chuck's eyes twinkled. "So do I by the way, what's your name?"
"Kay Dunn," she answered.
Chuck Jones opened a book and neatly inscribed the name therein. Then he looked up. "Say, that's a neat combination—red hair and green eyes. What's your telephone number in port?"

Kay laughed. "Sorry, I haven't any."
He stopped the little book shut and then stood up. "Okay by me! But when you get lonely in port just give me a wink. I'll be around."
When he was gone Kay laughed softly to herself. "The spoiled little brat! He can't be more than twenty-two. In spite of his conceit, though, he's probably a nice boy."

She settled back into her seat and remembered the look of quiet resolution on Ted Graham's face. She sat quietly for a long time, until suddenly she turned and saw Doris Lee's angry face close to her.
"That co-pilot!" Doris said. "He's just impossible!" She tossed her yellow hair. "I was standing there, trying to learn something from the air hostess when he came by and said we were blocking the aisle. And that's not all. He said, 'Get rid of some of that excess baggage, sister, if you're going to fly this line!' I turned beet-red. I know, but I'll fix that guy! He can't get fresh with me!"

Kay looked back and saw Chuck Jones's blond head close to Alice Miller's. His blue eyes were shining, and Alice seemed enormously pleased. Her brooding, timid air had somehow vanished and she was laughing at something he had said.

In a minute or two the co-pilot rose and walked past Kay without so much as a nod this time. Doris scowled after him. Chuck took the pilot's place and a few minutes later the two girls in uniform, but just as he was about to speak to them, one of the passengers, a dowager, leaned into the aisle to say, "Boyl!"

The pilot jumped as if he had been shot, but he responded courteously. "The plane passes over my daughter's house near Pittsburgh," the woman said. "It's on a big hill. I wonder if you'd go down low so I can see the lights of the house. I'm sentimental about those things."

The pilot's face concealed his mirth. "Boyl!" he said, but at that point we can't fly lower than 3,000 feet—Government regulations."
He hurried on toward the rear of the plane.

Kay laughed. "I suppose an air hostess has to answer a lot of questions siller than that. We'll have to learn a lot about geography, and time-tables, and government regulations. And what is a gyropilot? Somebody stopped the pilot back there and asked him."

"Don't look at the pilot!" Doris said. "He'll think you're flirting with him. These old women passengers spoil them. Every one of them thinks he's the Winged Mercury! But we had them like that in the insane

PROGRESS IN AID TO DEAF

Hard-of-hearing Club Marks
Birthday With Unusual
Programme

A year's progress was marked by the Victoria Hard-of-hearing Club last night when officers and members were hosts to their friends at an annual first birthday party at 730 Fort Street, with musical numbers and speeches making up the programme.

To permit full enjoyment of the entertainment, acousticon receivers connected to a master microphone were provided for those who were hard of hearing. The members and guests were seated at long tables.

F. L. Shaw, who was in charge of the evening's entertainment, spoke of the activities of the Victoria club and of the advances of work in aid of the hard-of-hearing in other parts of the continent.

Miss Kate Gaudin, president of the club, said in her address that she believed the members could celebrate the first birthday of the organization with the feeling that their objects had been fulfilled and that the formation of the club had been amply justified by the results of the first year's work.

Speaking of deafness as a handicap, not an affliction, she pledged the club's future efforts to bring comfort into the lives of others who were under the same handicap. She referred to the relaxation, human companionship and confidence which the group had brought to its members.

All over Canada and the United States, she said, doctors were praising such groups, and advising their hard-of-hearing patients to become members in order to relieve the nervous strain, restlessness and self-pity that might affect them.

Barb O'Brien of San Francisco, who had helped with the provision of acousticon apparatus, spoke briefly of the activities of hard-of-hearing clubs in the United States. Following his address he was successful in raising more than $100 towards a permanent group hearing aid for the local organization.

Mrs. O'Brien also spoke briefly. The musical portion of the programme included community singing, solos by Mr. O'Brien, readings from Dickens by Wilfred Ord, and a number of solos by members and guests. Refreshments were served at the end of the programme.

City School Board Accepts
Generous Offer For Indigent's Visual Care

Establishment of an optometric clinic to provide proper and satisfactory visual care for the indigent school children of Victoria was approved yesterday evening by members of the City School Board.

The offer was made by the Optometric Extension Clinic, a group of Victoria optometrists who undertake in their proposal to give free service to indigent children and supply them with glasses when the occasion arises. The trustees remarked on the generosity of the offer and felt it would be an excellent service to the school children and also a service which would save the board money. The cheque will go to help crippled children at the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Mr. Watson, in a brief speech before he handed over the money to Mr. Doherty, told how the company had devised the idea of bringing the palace to Canada at a conference of managers in Vancouver in January, 1935.

He thanked the Rotary Club and the ladies who had supervised the display for their co-operation. He made special mention of the work of Percy B. Scurrah as chairman of the club's special committee in charge of the exhibition.

Mr. Doherty extended the club's thanks to the Hudson's Bay Company, and pointed out that Rotary to date had collected and given more than $50,000 for charity in Victoria. He pointed to the Rotary superfluity sale, to be held November 18, as another effort in the same direction.

Mr. Watson was accompanied by J. S. Horne, C. W. Page and John Ketter of the company's staff. Charles Williams represented the Solarium at the luncheon.

Concluding a series of four addresses dealing with the policy of the new party, Rev. Robert Connell, leader of the Opposition in the B.C. Legislature, last night discussed the unemployment problem. He traced the rise and fall in business since the beginning of the century. No matter how one looked at it, he said, there seemed no escape from the conclusion that the economic security of the world demanded such radical changes in the existing methods of production and distribution as would substitute genuine planning of the whole field of industrial endeavor, of the various exchanges of goods, both raw and manufactured, and of the financial obligations connected therewith.

My Boyhood Ambition

An Engineer

Had Alderman T. W. C. Hawkins followed his boyhood ambition, he would probably have been a marine engineer today.

As a youngster he cherished the hope of following in the footsteps of an uncle who was the youngest marine engineer operating on the coast. But like many young fellows, he made the mistake of discussing his plans with a man in the line he wished to follow. As a result, his uncle talked him out of his marine ambitions.

He earned his first dollar working Saturday afternoons at a grocery store, serving over the counter and delivering goods.

His entry into the City Council arose from the frequently-expressed opinion of his former partner, the late E. C. Hayward.

"Mr. Hayward believed everyone should, at some time, offer his services to the public," says Alderman Hawkins. "I was not particularly anxious to enter public life, but I felt there was a great deal of merit in what he said. As a result I threw my hat into the ring, without any real expectations of being elected. When the polls closed I was among the successful."

"If I had my life to live over again, I think I'd study to be an electrical engineer," Alderman Hawkins says.

His present hobby, farming, comes naturally to him.

"My people, from the time of Adam, have been farmers," he remarks.

BIG MAIL JOB IS COMMENCED

Employees in British Columbia who will come under health insurance next year will have their registration forms this week-end, Alton Peebles, chairman of the Health Insurance Commission, announced today.

The health commission, King's Printer and postal department at the Legislative Buildings were co-operating today in getting the forms ready to mail-out tonight in what is said to be the biggest single job of mailing ever undertaken by a provincial department.

There are roughly 100,000 forms to be distributed. The income tax department mails some 70,000 yearly and the Workmen's Compensation Board 40,000, so the health insurance branch was claiming the record today.

The forms will be bundled into 12,000 packages and sent out to employees. In Vancouver, North Vancouver and West Vancouver the delivery will be express messenger service and elsewhere in the province by the ordinary postal service.

Depots will be established in Victoria, Vancouver and West Vancouver, where the forms may be returned instead of through the mail. These offices will also supply extra copies. The forms are to be filled out within three days and returned, so that within a week or ten days, the commission staff will begin tabulating the returns to discover exactly how many persons will be insured, what their earnings are and how much the 2 and 1 per cent payroll levies will produce.

Meanwhile the commission itself is moving up town to the Weiler Building, with entrance on Gordon Street.

For use by the Federal Department of Public Works as the site for a float and approach, the provincial government today set aside 38 acres at Spring Cove, Ucluelet, on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

HIS BACKACHE WAS UNBEARABLE

Kruschen Brought Him Relief from Pain

This man of 31 was prematurely aged by backache, when he should have been enjoying the best years of his life. Here he tells how Kruschen helped to restore him to health, after months of pain:
"I was in hospital for ten weeks, owing to kidney trouble. When I was discharged I felt like an old man, although I am only 31. If I stopped to do anything it was agony to straighten up again. Several people advised me to try Kruschen Salts. I tried them and found they gave me relief from pain and I felt better in every way. I cycle 20 miles a day to and from work, and shall keep up the daily dose of Kruschen because I can now do the journey to and from work and not feel any the worse for it."—S.V.C.

When the internal organs cease to do their work properly impurities begin to accumulate in the system, and cause troublesome symptoms. Kruschen Salts help to stimulate the liver and excretory organs to healthy, regular activity, and thus assist them to rid the system of harmful impurities.

Mme. Huntly Green To Give Recital

The Victoria Musical Art Society will present as its first concert of the season, a recital by the famous Canadian pianist, Gertrude Huntly Green, who will play in the Empire Theatre on Thursday, October 22.
Madame Green's playing has been warmly praised by critics everywhere, and her reputation extends abroad as well as on this continent. Among other glowing press notices in England was that in the Daily Telegraph: "Whatever Mme. Huntly may choose to play, she commands attention. Only a pianist of the first class is capable of such a tour de force as her Schumann performance."
The seat sale for Madame Green's concert will continue at the Kent Piano Co., 545 Yates Street, until the night of the concert.

Co-operate To Help Island

Advises R. D. Harvey in Address to Ward Conservatives

Secession of Vancouver Island from British Columbia might be a final solution if British-Columbia governments continue to deny justice to the island, but, in the meantime, Vancouver Island political associations should agree to stick together on island matters. R. D. Harvey, president of the Victoria Conservative Association, said in expressing a personal opinion before Ward 2 Conservatives last night.

Island Conservative Associations could get together to form a Vancouver Island policy and press this and without severance in any way from the mainland.
"As part of a Federal and provincial organization Conservatives living on Vancouver Island cannot for one moment neglect the question of a square deal for the island," he said. "When it comes to election time we must see that our candidates are pledged to this."

Mr. Harvey predicted a new wave of Conservative thought in British Columbia, with victory at the next provincial election on a sensible and practical programme.
He announced that W. H. M. Haldane had been named chairman of the organization committee of the central association, and was making plans to interest younger men and women in Conservative aims.
All Ward 2 officers were re-elected.

OUT OUR WAY

PLAZA STARS GEORGE RAFT

"It Had to Happen" Feature Picture Starting Today

A new star team of irresistible lovers tops the film horizon as George Raft and Rosalind Russell step out arm-in-arm together in the grand new 20th Century comedy romance, "It Had to Happen," which opened at the Plaza Theatre today.

With Raft playing the part of an irresistible lover, and Miss Russell a lady who thought she was too ritzy for romance, "It Had to Happen" is a pulse-pounding romance of two people who found the world well lost for love.

In its unconventional style, this picture, adapted from the Rupert Hughes story, throws the stars together as they are nearing New York on a ship. Miss Russell is a stick and lovely heiress to many millions, and Raft is a poor immigrant lad coming to the land of promise with his friend Leo Carrillo, just about as far apart as any two people can be.
The second feature, "Gentle Julia," stars the mischievous Jane Withers.

FAMOUS KING IS PORTRAYED

Charles Laughton Has Leading Role in "The Private Life of Henry VIII"

Charles Laughton brings to the Atlas Theatre today his interpretation of Henry VIII as England's much-married monarch in "The Private Life of Henry VIII," a London film production and a United Artists release.
As directed by Alexander Korda from the story by Lajos Biro and Arthur Wimperis, "The Private Life of Henry VIII" presents in a light, humorous and modern mood the story of the 16th century king and five of his six wives, two of whom he had beheaded and two of whom were divorced.

Miss Lanchester, in private life Mrs. Charles Laughton, plays Ann of Cleves, the German Duchess, whose marriage was for reasons of state, and was very short and very funny, lasting only a day and part of a night spent over a card game. Binnie Barnes plays the important role of Kathryn Howard, Wendy Barrie, Marie Oberon and Evelyn Craig are the other wives, and other important roles are portrayed by Miles Mander, Claud Allister, Lady Tree, Robert Donat and Franklin Dyll.
Also being shown in the second feature are Ned Sparks and Gordon Barker in "Two's Company."

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am twenty-five years old. Have been out of college five years and have had a good job until two weeks ago when I lost it. I am very much in love with a girl, but since I am out of work I feel constrained when I am with her because she also works and makes good money. When I am with her my pride will not even let me mention my plans for the future, as we used to do when I had a good job. Will my being out of work at this time cause her to lose her respect and love for me, she knowing all the time that I am doing everything in my power to get work? Perhaps I am too choosy in looking for work. I have always had a situation above the average and that is the kind I have been looking for since, because when you start falling down the steps it is hard to stop. Please advise me about my girl, for I am afraid if I don't get a job soon that it will have its weight with her, or any other woman as far as that goes. B. W.

Answer—You pay your sweetheart a very poor compliment when you assume that she will lose her affection for you because you have lost your job. If she is that kind of a girl and her only interest in you is what you make and what you can give her, you will be lucky to be rid of her at any price.

You don't know much about the hearts of women if you don't know that there is something of the eternal mother in every real woman that draws her closer to her man when he is in trouble than she ever is when he is prosperous. She wants to comfort him, to help him. She wants him to lay his head on her shoulder and weep out all his sorrows on her breast. She wants to lighten his burden—her burden—by sharing his pain and to strengthen him and put fresh hope in him by her belief in him.

It is only the gold-digger who gives a man the air when he can no longer make her presents and take her out to places of amusement. The real girl, the girl worth marrying, clings the closer to him the more he needs her.

Your pride and your sense of independence are fine and admirable, but they are making you treat your girl cruelly when it causes you to shut up like a clam about your feelings and to quit talking and planning about your future. It makes her feel that you no longer love her and that you have shut her out of your confidence. That isn't giving her a fair deal. She has a right to know just how you stand so far as she is concerned, and that you are just waiting until you get on your feet again to get married and set up that little home that you spent so many happy hours planning.

And believe me, son, you will not only comfort her, but also yourself by keeping on with building castles in Spain. I myself, have got through many a bad hour by doing that and some of my dream houses I have actually lived in.

Anyway, you are taking your loss of a job entirely too tragically. A chap who is as industrious and determined to have work as you are will get it. Perhaps you will get something better than you had before. That often happens, and what we think was a misfortune proves a blessing in disguise.

But my advice to you is not to be too choosy in these hard times. Take whatever you can get and work up out of it. It is easier to get a job if you have a job. And you can't keep a good man down. But don't let your pride keep you away from your girl. She has a right to share in your sorrows as well as your joys.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have been happily married for three years. About two years ago I was out of town with a girl friend of mine and ran across two college men I used to know. In fact, I had been engaged to one of them. He asked if they might come to see us. I very innocently consented. When they came they brought liquor and we all drank too much. I got drunk and while I was in a state of intoxication I was unfaithful to my husband. I didn't know what I was doing. That is my only excuse. I never loved this man and I adore my husband and he not only loves me, but he depends upon my love. I have been the one stable thing in his whole life and he needs me to lean upon. But for the point where I think I shall lose my mind if I don't confess to him, but if I do it will wreck him. What shall I do? How can I live in deceit any longer? CONSCIENCE STRICKEN.

Answer—But you must. That is your punishment for having done wrong. You have sinned against your husband. Don't add to it a far worse sin by wrecking his life by telling him of it. Confession is a weakness. It is trying to shift your burden on to some innocent person's shoulders. It is trying to ease your conscience at the expense of some one else's happiness. It is a selfish and cowardly thing to do.

What you've done you've done. Nothing can change that. But if you tell your husband all about it you can-bias his happiness; you can destroy his faith in you; you can put it out of your power to help him; you can throw him back into the pit out of which you have helped him struggle. That is all that you will accomplish by your confession. Can you see any good in it?

What you need to do is to forgive yourself for the unintentional wrong you did and to snap out of the morbid state into which you have gotten. After all, you made only one step off of the straight and narrow way and you have washed away the mud on your skirts with your tears. Your repentance will make you a better wife and there is no danger of your ever repeating your offence. So just forget it and be happy and make your husband happy. And don't ever tell him, or your best friend one word about it.

DEAR MISS DIX—Should a girl return jewelry and other gifts to her ex-sweetheart's mother? He had said he didn't want any of his presents returned. In the meantime he has died and his mother writes me to return his presents. What must I do? MARGO.

Answer—If the young man were alive and wanted his presents back you would have to return them, but his mother has no claim upon them whatever, and there is no reason why you should send them to her unless you want to. DOROTHY DIX.

Uncle Wiggily Knocks Them

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily was quite excited. He picked up his driver golf club, looked at the alligator gentleman who kept the hot carrot stand and said:

"Well, I'm ready to knock them."

"Yes, I see you are," said the alligator gentleman. "But first I have to call my little alligator boys to help me."

"Oh, of course," said Mr. Longears, taking a few practice swings with the little seedhead of a dandelion which he knocked at to him.

Mr. Longears had started to play golf, as I told you in the story before this. He didn't know it, but the Three Bad Chaps—the Fox, the Wolf and the Bob Cat—had followed the rabbit gentleman when he went golfing, hoping to catch him. When they saw him stop at a place where the alligator gentleman had set up a place to practice knocking golf balls, the Bad Chaps hid themselves.

"Here, kittle, kittle, kittle!" called the alligator gentleman.

"What are you doing?" asked Uncle Wiggily, hitting another dandelion.

"Calling my alligator boys to chase and bring back the golf balls you knock in practice," was the answer.

NOT ALLIGATOR CALL

"I wouldn't say that was the way to call alligators," laughed Uncle Wiggily with a twinkle of his nose.

"No, you are right," said the alligator gentleman. "Then he called: 'Co, bossie! Co, bossie! Co, bossie!' You are calling the chickens."

"Now you're calling coveys," laughed Mr. Longears.

"Oh, so I am! What's the matter with me, I wonder?"

"The alligator opened wide his big mouth and called:

"Chick! Chick! Chick! Chick!"

Uncle Wiggily dropped his golf club and almost rolled in the grass because he laughed so hard.

"I'm sure," he chuckled, "that isn't the way to call alligator boys to chase the golf balls I knock. You are calling the chickens."

"So I am!" said the 'gator gentleman. "And now I come to think of it, I let my little alligator boys chase the balls as you knock them."

"Then what am I to do?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"I'm sure I don't know," said the alligator.

"Here is our chance!" whispered the Fox to the other Bad Chaps. "We can offer to chase the golf balls Uncle Wiggily knocks!"

"What good will that do?" asked the Wolf.

IRISH PORTS ARE BARRED

German Planes Will Not Be Able to Use Them on North
Atlantic Service

Canadian Press
Dublin, Oct. 15.—Irish Free State ports today were barred to German airline interests seeking to establish a North Atlantic service.

The announcement was made in an official statement issued by the Government yesterday as a sequel to reports of a projected experimental flight by the German Lufthansa company between Sydney, N.S., and Galway Bay, Irish Free State.

The statement said:
"The German Government was informed by the Free State Government and the other governments concerned (of Canada, Great Britain and Newfoundland) that, as they were bound by the Ottawa North Atlantic air agreement to consult each other before granting of facilities to companies other than those forming part of the joint operating company and Pan-American Airways, they could not accede to the German request for a permit to use their territories in the course of the flight."

When news of the grant of airport rights to a joint British company controlled by Imperial Airways and to Pan-American Airways, a United States company, was made known last June, it was stated these rights would be exclusive for fifteen years unless otherwise determined by Canada, Britain, Newfoundland and the Free State.

Diplomatic exchanges took place between the four governments during the week. It is believed, and reasons of policy other than those of air competition entered into the Free
State's decision.

Waterfront Strike May Be Called Soon

FIRE DAMAGES WOODEN SHIP

Schooner Santiam Towed
Into Chehalis River to Prevent Dock Blaze

Aberdeen, Wash., Oct. 15.—Fire of undetermined origin swept out of control aboard the wooden lumber schooner Santiam at San Francisco as it lay at a milldock here yesterday.
The ship was ordered towed out into the Chehalis River to prevent the fire from spreading to the wharf.

The Santiam was built in 1916 by the Hammond Lumber Company at Fairhaven, Calif., and was operated by Sudden and Christensen. The vessel's weight is 940 gross tons and its length 209 feet.

The Aberdeen fire department responded with all equipment, but was unable to check the flames. Five hoses played water on the fire. Three were rigged to pumps which used water from the river.

When the engines arrived the fire already had the whole central part of the vessel enveloped. Soon the fire spread into the forward hold and forecabin. It was first seen in the No. 1 hold.

Ten men of a crew of twenty-two were aboard when the fire was discovered. Capt. Ingvald Helseth was in command.

The Santiam arrived here yesterday from Willapa Harbor and was to have departed Friday for San Francisco after picking up lumber

Unions Ask Their Members to Give Authority to Call Strike at Midnight October 28

Associated Press
San Francisco, Oct. 15.—A simultaneous strike of all maritime unions on the Pacific Coast looms as a possibility today in the event differences between waterfront employers and employees are not settled peacefully by October 28.

To a federal maritime commission demand for an indefinite waterfront strike, executives of the several costume unions answered with appeals to their 38,000 members to vote them authority to call a strike at midnight, October 28, "if no satisfactory agreement is reached" before then.

Present working agreements, which were to expire September 30, were continued under a fifteen-day agreement scheduled to end at midnight tonight. Maritime labor leaders have indicated willingness to extend the truce to October 28, and employers to an indefinite continuation.

Only the International Longshoremen's Association has already submitted the strike authorization proposal to its membership in the form of a statement-ballot. Executives of the six other major waterfront unions agreed to submit like proposals to their memberships so that simultaneous action "may be taken if it is deemed advisable."

Members of the I.L.A. were asked:
"Are you in favor of giving to your representatives on the joint negotiations committee . . . full authority to call a strike at midnight, October 28, if no satisfactory agreement is reached between the I.L.A. and the employers on the fundamental issues?"

The unions declared the insistence of the new federal maritime commission for an indefinite truce while it investigates the situation on the coast
"contained a threat," and expressed the opinion the commission is "assuming powers with which it is not endowed."

The maritime commission is sending Rear-Admiral Harry G. Hamlet to Washington to investigate the situation. He is due to arrive here
October 19, and other representatives, the commission said, will follow.

A localized dispute delayed the departure of the steamer Oregon at Vancouver, Wash. Unions refused to sign articles of demurrage, demanding cash or transportation back to Portland, Ore. In the event the ship is tied up on the Atlantic coast, and asking for changes in the crew's quarters, which they declared were unsanitary and crowded. Ship-owner spokesmen declared the demands violate present agreements.

The statement said:

Among those on board is Dr. Kawai on "India and Asia, ancient and modern, their art and literature."

Before starting his world tour Dr.
Motomasa was professor of politics at two Indian national universities, formerly served as private secretary to the Maharaja of Marathi, a city of 350,000 residents.

"I have been two years on my trip," said Dr. Motomasa, who speaks English fluently. "I went from India via Suez, to Italy, France and England and spent three months in those countries. I am convinced that North America must play a leading role in world affairs. Isolation is no longer possible."

Others sailing on the Hiye Maru are E. W. Frazier, president of the Frazier Estate Company of Tokyo and a prominent Rotarian; Dr. Jiro Harudo, curator of the Imperial Har-
